COUNTER IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

Deadwood, S. D., June 28.-(Special.)-Four masked men this morning made a desperate attempt to rob the Butte coupty bank at Bellefourche. Entering the bank with revolvers drawn, they ordered the customers present and bank officials to hold up their hands.

A little hesitation on the part of Cashier Marble drew a shot from the gun of one of the robbers which clipped off a large portion of the cashler's right ear and forced compliance with the command.

The counters were relieved of the cash they contained, and the robbers mounted their horses, and as the party started away after the assault on the bank they were pursued at once. In the fight that followed Walter Gay, of Gay & Sons, was shot through the cheek. The outlaws fired right and left while riding out of town, but no one else was wounded. Thomas Day, one of the robbers, was overhauled half a mile from town, and is now in jail here. The rest of the gang are now at bay a few miles from Bellefourche, where they will be captured or killed.

Less than $75 was taken from the bank, Cashier Marble having locked the doors of the vault at the entrance of the rob bers. He was fired at three times, only one shot taking effect. He tried to return the fire, but his pistol failed him.

NARROWLY ESCAPED LYNCHING

NEGRO GIRL'S FALSE STATEMENT ALMOST CAUSES TROUBLE.

Mob Formed To Take a White Man Because of Negro's Untrue

Selma, Ala., June 28.-(Special.)-Lloyd Phillips, a negro, was arrested here yester-day and locked up on a charge of defamation of character.

The warrant was sworn out by Virgil Suttles, a young white man residing on Rutledge plantation, this county. Today four other negroes gave themselves up on similar warrants. The negroes were ring-leaders of a mob who on Saturday looked for young Suttles to lynch him for the supposed attempt to assault a negro girl. The girl was sent to keep the cattle out of the crops. She went to sleep and her father, seeing the crops being destroyed, searched for her with loud threats and cursing. She fled to the woods, where she remained all

Next morning she turned up at home and told a story of Suitles's keeping her in the woods all night. The negroes became excited and soon a large number of them went to look for her supposed/assallant. He was absent from home and the white men in the neighborhood investigated the matter and found that there could be no truth in the charge.

truth in the charge.

The girl when faced with the facts finally admitted that there was no truth in her story and that she concocted it to escape a beating. The negroes then dispersed and later warrants were sworn out for the leaders.

Had Suttles not been absent from home when the mob reached his house there would have been a tragedy.

Aberdeen, Miss., June 28.-A negro name Parry Gilliam was forcibly taken from the roe county jail last night, carried five miles from town and hanged to a tree in the middle of the big road, where his body was found. He was the negro charged with attempting to assault a woman at Okolona Saturday afternoon. He was recognized by her oay atternoon. He was recognized by her out of a party of half a dozen arrested.

The court and officers at Okolona, fearing a lynching, removed the negro to Monroe county jail at Aberdeen Saturday night.

PHILADELPHIA HAS A BIG FIRE Large Five-Story Building Destroyed

Early This Morning. Philadelphia, June 23.—Fire broke out this morning at 1 o'clock in the large five-story building north of Montgomery avenue and between Fourth and Fifth streets, occupied by several manufacturers.

The losses wil aggregate about $2,000.

The principal losers are the Pennsylvania Gas Fixture Company, the Matred Mills Company, manufacturers of upholstery; M. Schwartz, manufacturer of upholstery and cloth, and John Yankee, carriage manufacturer floors are ufacturers. The three upper floors are completely gutted and the contents of the lower floors practically ruined by water.

the fire was incendiary.

Lewis and Terry Miller, brothers, residing near the McSpaddens, were arrested and tried at Cleveland today, each being bound to court under a $1,000 bond. The evidence was very sensational and showed that an organized kuklux hand exists in the McSpadden neighborhood.

Clinton, S. C., June 28.—(Special.)—The heaviest electric storm in Clinton's history overhung this town Sunday night from about 8.30 to 10 o'clock. Services at the different churches were conducted amid constant flashes of bilnding lightning and heavy and increasing thunder. Considerable hall fell.

Just after services were concluded in the Presbyterian church a heavy stroke of lightning followed the point of its steeple to the ground over imperfect conductors, resulting in a heavy shock to the entire congregation. Messrs. George Shilleto and

STRANGE SUICIDE OF MISS ROSE

Tornado Unbalanced Her Mind and Thunderstorms Caused the Deed.

St. Louis, June 28.—Minnie Rose, aged twenty, the only daughter of Louis Rose, of the C. & L. Rose Company, whose mind was unbalanced by the terrible tornado of May 27th, has committed suicide under remarkable circumstances.

The home of the Rose family was right in the heart of the tornado and was wrecked by it. The fright and terrible ordeal through which Miss Rose passed developed a hysterical mania, which after the first attack never deserted her. Sunday she worked into a frenzy, on account of the thunderstorms, which had been frequent, and took a dose of paris green. She lingered until today, when she died in terrible agony.

New York, June 28.-There were six more callers at the morgue today, people who thought it possible they might be able to identify the two portions of a human body found, one in East river on Saturday

M'LEAN HAS A CLEAR FIELD FOR SENATE

Platform Will Show a Strong and Prominent Free Silver Plank.

Columbus, O., June 28.—(Special.)—The democracy of Ohio stands not only true to but enthusiastic for the Chicago platform and its principles. The "harmony howler" has sung his song in vain. The men who sought to get another hold on the party they attempted to wreck last November, have failed utterly. The democratic masses, like the true democratic leaders, saw through their specious cries of harmony, and notice has been given that the democratic party of Obio has no gether.

Never in the history of the party have its members been so harmonious. The convention which will hold its preliminary session tomorrow, will be as enthusiastic in its support of the Chicago platform as was the Chicago convention itself.

The republican papers have thrown out suggestions of modifications, though even these have never suggested any change of the financial plank. As for the gold men who still call themselves democrats, they for a time tried to stop the silver tide but they soon retired, acknowledging their efforts of no avail.

There is no Cal Brice, no Tom Johnson in this convention. Johnson tried to come, but was beaten at his home. . Brice very sensibly had business elsewhere. Neither he nor his lieutenants are at all in evidence. This is strongly and strictly a silver convention, as was that memorable one which assembled at Griffin, Ga., just about a year ago.

I have drawn a draft of the platform through which Ohio democrats will express their faith and on which they conidently expect to elect their ticket in November. It is short, but it tells the whole story. Of course the verbiage may be slightly changed, but the essentials are First, an indorsement as strong as the English language can make it of the immortal principles of Jefferson, as enunciated in the Chicago platform with special emphasis on the demaid for the free, un-limited and independent coinage of silver Second, an arraignment of the republican party for the dishonest promises of the speedy prosperity which it held out to the people and which it knew could not be ful-Third, a Cuban plank which is aimed particularly at Hanna, which will read: "We demand the immediate recognition of the belligerent rights of the republic of Cuba, as an act of justice to an American nation struggling for liberty; and we denounce and protest against the action of Senator Hanna in voting to pullify the memorial in favor of the Cuban patriots adopted unanimously by the legislature of Ohio and presented to congress." Fourth, a plank expressing sympathy for those who are unemployed as the results of republican legislation. Fifth, brief references to republican shortcomings in state affairs, notably a roast for Bushnell for his failure to prevent the Urbana lynching, and a criticism of some of The republican extravagances.

A platform genuinely democrafic it will be, and that the party will make a happy selection of a standard bearer there can be no doubt, for any one of those most prominently mentioned will spendidly fill the

I have seen many campaigns in this Buckeye State, where the science of politics exists in its highest development, but I have never seen the conditions so favorable to democratic victory.

The long array of candidates for the governorship is a most encouraging sign. I have endeavored to make an inventory of the stock of democratic gubernatorial material, but am by no means certain that I have exhausted the list. Here is, however the array as it appears tonight:

H. L. Chapman, of Jackson county, coa operator and ex-lawver: Allen W. Thurmon, of Columbus, who has much strength outside of the fact of being the old Roman's son, but who unfortunately for himself has large capacity for making enemies.

Paul J. Sorg, of Middletown, ex-congress man, a man worth millions, handleapped by early luke-warmness on the silver ques-tion, and who voted for gold bonds; Allen V. Smalley, of Upper Sandusky, an able young democrat; Robert T. Hough, of Hillsboro, ex-judge, who resigned as solicitor for the treasury department because he wouldn't go for gold; John C. Welty, of Canton, lawyer, man of wealth, strong in every way; A. W. Pattrick, of Tuscarawas, S. M. Hunter, of Newark; D. D. Donavan, of Deshler; John W. Winn, of Defiance; John N. Van Meter, of Ross; John J. Lentz, of Columbus.

All these are candidates, though none o this latter group, except Lentz, can be looked upon as a possibility. The fight for this nomination is warm, and is absorbing all the interest locally.

The race is between Chapman, Hough and Welty. It is believed Chapman will lead on the first ballot, and tonight Hough's chances to be the ultimate winner seem best. Any one of these three will make a magnificent race. Tonight the town is full of democrats. The advance guard is greater than it has even been at a similar event There is absolute harmony, thorough good feeling? There is no bitterness in the contest for honors. Every democrat seems imbued with the belief that harmony means victory, and that victory is coming.

I have spoken of the platform. A plank not in the written instrument, but in the not in the written instrument, but in the heart of every democrat and every populist, every silver republican, and about one thousand of the "organed" republicans contains just two words. But there is no need to mention them. Every one knows this is

SANTIAGO DE CUBA. Declares That He Comes To Bring

Peace or War as the People May Want.

Havana, June 28.-Captain General Wey-ler, after a stormy passage on a coasting steamer from Manzanillo, arrived at Santiago de Cuba yesterday afternoon. The steamer was met by a number of tugs, having on board the municipal authorities, provincial authorities and General Linares, the military commander of the district. Addressing the local authorities last evening in the palace of Santiago de Cuba, Captain General Weyler said he remembered with pleasure that region where he had engaged in a campaign during the previous war in Cuba. Continuing, he explained that he was coming to pacify that part of the island and that though he was strongly desirous of peace, his system of making war was to be rigorous toward the "rebels" who refuse to accept the clemency which Spain has offered them.

The captain general referred to the sincerity of the Spanish government in its desire to introduce reforms in Cuba, concluding with the remark:

"I come to bring peace or war. If th former is accepted, we will then return to the law. But if the latter is desired, beaind me come forty battalions of troops. At 9 o'clock last evening Governor Orda banqueted the captain general. Much enthusiasm is said to have been manifested

CHANGES IN OFFICIAL HOUSE-HOLD COMING FAST.

Old Members of the Cabinet Are Get-ting Out of the Way for the Ruler's Choice.

Berlin, June 28.-As the health of Baron Marschall von Beberstein, minister of foreign affairs, is in no way impaired, the semi-official announcement of his retirement from the foreign office, which come from Kiel today, is regarded as a virtual dismissal. The theory is that this arrangement is made to enable Baron von Bulow to accompany the emperor and Prince Hohenlohe to St. Petersburg, after which Prince Hohenlohe will resign and Baron von Bulow will succeed him.

Baron von Kidelon-Wachter, now German minister at Copenhagen, will be appointed foreign secretary.

It is said tonight that Dr. von Boetticher has actually resigned and will be succeeded by Count Pasadowsky-Wehner, the pres ent secretary of the treasury. Dr. Miquel's chances appear to be temporarily clouded.

General Podbielsky will shortly be gazetted as postmaster general. Altogether, Germany appears to be in the throes of a far-reaching crisis, of which t is impossible to see the outcome beyond the fact that the emperor is more than ever taking the reins into his own control. NO OFFICIAL INFORMATION.

The derrick stood out in air a rull 200 feet above the street and with patient, but powerful arm it was lifting a heavy scow filled with mortar. The powerful derrick was braced and stayed by a taut rope cable, which inclined away from its top to a point in the railroad yards, an eighth of

A new paragraph, 178½, was agreed to, vis: Hooks and eyes, 5½c. per pound and is per cent ad valorem.

At Mr. Quay's request the change in paragraph 187 was reconsidered and I desit restored as the duty on iron bars, etc., in addition to the rates on plates, etc., in addition to the rates on plates, etc., Mr. Allison proposed a change in paragraph 42½, relating to hides, making the rate 20 per cent ad valorem, instead of 1½ cents per pound, and also striking out the proviso relating to drawbacks.

The paragraph as amended reads: "Hides of cattle, raw or uncured, whether dry, salted or pickled, 20 per cent ad valorem."

The debate which followed was participated in by Mr. Smith, who had come in; Mr. Platt, of Connecticut; Vest, Hoar, Allen and Stewart.

and Stewart.

During the course of his speech Mr. Smith, referring to Cuba, spoke of the remarkable fact that a resolution recognizing the belligerency of the Cubans had been passed by the senate and sent to that temb—the house of representatives—to be buried by a republican house, a republican speaker, at the dictation of a republican president. It was an insult to the American people which they would repulse at the polise. ch they would rebuke at the polls dent. It was an insult to the American people which they would rebuke at the polls next November.

Mr. Smith was suffering from a slight indisposition and was compelled to take a brief rest before continuing his speech. The discussion finally branched off to the prosecution of trusts, in which Messrs. Allen and Hoar discussed the law.

Mr. Hoar stated that he thought it likely an amendment relating to trusts would be offered in connection with the present bill tending to perfect the provisions on that subject in the tariff bill of 1894 and declared that such provisions are not repealed by this bill. Such an amendment had been prepared by Mr. Pettus, of Alabama, and Mr. Hoar said he expected to vote for it when it came up. Mr. Hoar said that wills the question of trusts could be dealt with to some extent by striking at their imports, as the law of 1894, yet he feared that the most serious phases of the cvil must be dealt with by the states. He showed the technical legal meaning of the word "trust" and explained the difficulties in making the sugar trust and Standard Oil trust amenable to federal law. He regarded these monopolies as a menace to the republic and was hopeful that some means might be found to check them, yet he could not say how they could be hit. The state could limit their amount of capital, which would be one effective means of dealing with them.

Mr. Lindsay, of Kentucky, said that in ealing with them. Mr. Lindsay, of Kentucky, said that in the case of a confessed monopoly, such as the sugar trust, one effective means of dealing with it would be to extend it no further benefits from tariff legislation. When the point was reached in a tariff bill where sugar was to be dealt with then it should be so shaped as not to be to the benefit of the trusts.

Trust Should Be Controlled.

Mr. Hoar replied that the answer to this was that the policy seemed to be established that revenue was to be raised on refined sugar and it was further desired that the business of refining sugar shall be done in this country rather than abroad.

Mr. Caffery argued that the sugar trust was within the corporation of the anti-trust

Mr. Caffery argued that the sugar trust was within the corporation of the anti-trust and he felt that it was time that the attorney general and the United States district attorney was called to the frequent and flagrant violations of the law by the sugar trust. The senator declared that the sugar trust was the most arrogant and injuitious trust in the world.

Mr. Allen resuming, declared that the country was "rotten with trusts," every article we eat and wear, and use, being controlled by trusts, while congress, the judiciary and the executive authorities are impotent and powerless to act according to those who argued that the federal laws cannot reach the trusts. He maintained that the laws are sufficient if energetically enforced.

The vote was then taken on the hide paragraph as amended by the committee, making the duty 20 per cent ad valorem and it was agreed to 39 to 20.

The committee presented a substitute for paragraph 427, bankor belting, leather etc. It was agreed to—30 to 19.

THEY DISCUSSED RATES ON COAL Republican Members of Senate Finance

Committee Hold a Meeting. Washington, June 28 .- There was a large gathering of republican senators at the meeting of the senate finance committee at the Arlington hotel tonight. Most of the ime was spent in discussing the rates to be imposed on coal, and the proposition to fix them so that a reciprocal arrange-ment may be arrived at with the Dominion of Canada. No formal conclusion was reached, the committee deferring final ac-tion until the meting tomorrow morning. Strong arguments were advanced by some cents per ton on coal, thestatement being made that the western coal fields should find a market in Canada for an additional million tons per year, this statement be-ing based on reports that the new liberar ministry of the Dominion of Canada would ministry of the Dominion of Canada would reduce the duty on imports of American coal to a similar amount and enter into reciprocal arrangement with the United States. After the meeting one member of the committee advanced the opinion that the rate to be finally fixed would be 6% bents per ton, but that there would be no provision for a reciprocal agreement.

The rates on pineappies were increased in packages from 6 to 7 cents per cubic foot; in bulk, from 6 to 37 per thousand.

The general subject of reciprocity also came up for discussion by the republican members of the committee after, the visitors had departed.

Brown's Miraculous Escape The most remarkable part of the accident was the miraculous escape of the other brickmason, W. M. Brown, a white man. Brown was near the two negroes who had been killed, and he was also hurled from the scaffold by the falling derrick. As he was going down to death he grasped a rope which was swinging near him and held to it with fearful energy. There were two ropes by his side and it chanced that he had caught the one which was being drawn upward by the other detrick falling in an opposite direction. The other rope was being pulled downward and had he taken that one he would have met the terrible fate of his companions. But he had fortunately grabbed the ascending rope and he was taken back up to the roof of the building. The instant he saw that he was near the roof again, for he never lost his presence of mind during the fearful ordeal, he reached out and took hold of a cornice, and with a mighty effort struggled to a place of safety.

Brown was taken down stairs and sent to the office of a physician. He was badly bruised about the head and hands ed way how he escaped.

"It all happened so suddenly and quickly and was all over so soon," he said, "that I hardly know what occurred, I heard a knocked from the next instant I felt myself knocked from the scaffold and found that I was being hurled downward toward the earth. I saw two ropes dangling close to me and I reached for and grabbed one of them with both my hands. That all happened, you understand, in a second's time. Then I was drawn rapidly up to the roof, and as I touched a cornice I took hold of it with one of my hands, still keeping one hand on the friendly rope, while I pulled myself to

Just before the accident two negroes, Charles Kelly and Luther Miller, were at work cleaning off the stone facings. They vere suspended on a small swinging scaffold by a rope which was attached to an arm from the derrick nearest Forsyth street. When the farther derrick gave way the one next to Forsyth street also swung from its base, causing the arm to drop to the roof. This suddenly lowered the swing-ing scaffold and gave the negro workmen ing scanoid and gave the negro workmen a frightful drop of over twenty feet. Placed as they were the negroes did not know what had happened, and this added to their fear, as the scanoid shook and trembled from the force of the fail. Two ropes were thrown them from windows of the building which were fastened to either side of the scaffold. This steaded it, while a ladder was run out from a win-dow opposite to where they were sus-

As soon as the ladder was in place, the two men were told to crawl upon it to the window. This was no easy task in their nervous and excited condition. They had nervous and excited condition. They had to creep upon their all-fours on a ladder which swayed with the motions of the scaffold. Below them was a space of over a hundred feet. One misstep or a shaky hand meant a horrible and instant death.

One of the men began the trip while the crowd below watched with bated breath. He crawled along the ladder slowly and carefully. The ladder shook and he stop-ped a moment. Then he began the trip again, and was safe.

The other man started over the ladder, which was still slightly swaying. He went over the rungs cautiously. The crowd was growing more and more excited. He was nearly at the end of his perilous journey, which meant safety and life. Two or three more steps—and he, too, was safe.

A shout went up from the crowd in the street below which told of the nervous strain which had held them quiet while the Foul Play Suspected. The cause of the accident, as has been stated, was the loosening of the ellps near the "dead man" or guy post in the railroad yard. This was due to the giving way of four clips which held the rope taut. When seen about the matter the superintendent in charge of the work, Mr. Gam-

"I feel certain that somebody tampered with those clips. There were four of them, and they had been recently inspected by as trustworthy a man as we have in our employ. They could not have given way as they did unless somebody had loosened them up. The derricks have a capacity of five tons and at the time of capacity of nive tons and at the time of the accident there was not more than two and a half tons on them. Of course we are sorry that such a thing occurred, but we do not see how it could have been pre-vented. There are plenty of men who have not the best of feeling toward us on account of having been discharged."

How the Accident Occurred.

How the Accident Occurred.

The exact way in which the accident occurred, as described by one of the workmen, was as follows:

At the post, or what is technically known as the "dead man," the guy rope running to the derrick on the roof is tightened by four clips. From some unknown cause these clips slipped, which caused the rope to slacken several feet. The loosening of this guy rope at a time when the derricks were under the strain of a heavy weight threw one of the derricks out of plum, and slipping from its base, it fell over. As the two derricks were connected, the falling of one caused the other to topple over. The brickmasons were struck by the derrick which first fell. The two negroes on the swinging scaffold outside the building were caused to drop on account of the arm to one of the derricks, the second to fall, being suddenly lowered.

The fall of the first derrick over one hundred feet was a terrific cash, and it was the merest accident that others were not hurt or killed, as workmen are constantly passing to and fro in the open court below.

The first event on the programme of the day was the annual address by President Joseph Stewart, of the association. He made an enthusiastic talk in which he expressed great happiness at being able to address the assembly on this, the thirty-first annual meeting of the association. "Shall the state print or purchase text-books?" was then discussed by E. A. Pound, superintendent of the Waycross He made an excellent address and one that impressed itself on the teachers. The question he was to dis-cuss is one that has been agitating the teachers for some time and they were glad of the chance to hear a prominent ator express himself. Major Slaton said that the advocates of state uniformity had only two arguments and that both of these were clas and that both of these were classed unto the head of economy. The first claim, he said, was that state uniformity would ben-efit those people who move from one county to another and are compelled to buy a new set of books when they have to change their residence. Major Slaton held that the floating population would not amount to more than 3 per cent and that it would be unwise as well as unjust to pass a law that would benefit only this small portion of the state's population.

The second argument advanced by the advocates of uniformity, he said, was that by a uniformity law the books could be bought cheaper. He said this was an assertion hard to prove. About twenty other states have tried uniformity and ac-other states have tried uniformity and according to Major Slaton, none of these 6b-tain their books any cheaper.

The reasons against uniformity, he said, could be placed under three heads:

"I. It is paternalism and bad policy from a governmental standpoint.

"2. Leading educators all over the union, without exception, condemn state uniformity as being bad from an educational standpoint.

ity as being bad from an educational standpoint.

"3. There is no economy in state uniformity, for no state contract has been made at cut rate prices, unless the adopted books were admittedly inferior to the best standard books in the market. And a poor schoolbook is expensive at any price."

President R. W. Smith, of LaGrange, then gave reminiscences of Georg a teachers before the war.

This afternoon the high school round table, with Professor M. L. Brittain, of Atlanta, as chairman, was held at the auditorium. The most interesting question discussed was that of "Shall the course of study for girls be the same as for boys?"

The county commissioners' round table,

the Negro Hardeman.

Yesterday morning the coroner held an inquest over the body of the negro, Rube Hardeman, who died from the effects of a pistol wound. As stated in The Constitution yesterday, Hardeman died in the Grady hospital after being confined there for a week.

The evidence before the coroner's jury was that the negro's death was caused from the wound and that the pistol was fired by Patrolman N. A. Lanford while he was undertaking to make an arrest. Lanford shot Hardeman while the latter held a razor in his hand in a threatening attitude and defied arrest.

The verdict of the fury was that the deceased came to his death from the 'ause stated and that the killing by the police officer was justifiable homicide.

INDIANA MAN DISCOVERS A RE-MARKABLE REMEDY FOR LOST VIGOR.

Samples Will Be Sent Free to All Who

Write for It.

James P. Johnston, of Fort Wayne, Ind., after battling for years against the mental and physical suffering of lost manhood, has found the exact remedy that cures the trouble.

He is guarding the secret carefully, but is willing to send a sample of the medicine to all men who suffer with any form of sexual weakness resulting from youthful ignorance, premature loss of memory and strength, weak back, varicocle and emaclation. The remedy has a neculiarly grateful effect of warmth and seems to act directly, giving needed strength and development wherever needed. The remedy cured Mr. Johnston completely of all the ills and troubles that come from years of misuse of the naturally orduined functions and is said to be absolutely reliable in every case.

A request to Mr. James P. Johnston box 1103. Fort Wayne, Ind., stating that you would like a sample of his remedy for men will be compiled with promptly and no charge whatever will be asked by him. He is very much interested in spreading the news of this great remedy and he is careful to send the sample securely sealed in a perfectly plain package so that its recipient need bave no fear of embarrassment or publicity.

Readers are requested to write without delay.

In Feeble Health

Unable to do Her Work - Nervous and Tired - All These Troubles Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. "For the past four years I have been in feeble health, and for two years past, owing to change of climate, I have not been able to do my work. I was nervous and had a tired feeling and was under the treatment of physicians, but I continually grew worse. My husband insisted on my trying Hood's Sarsaparilla and I finally consented, and began taking it the first of June, 1896. The first bottle did me so much good that I continued with it, and after taking four bottles and one bottle of Hood's Pills I am able to do my work, and the tired, nervous feeling is entirely cured." The Appointment Was Suggested by Seeing Miss Lewis Butt, of Governor Atkinson's Staff.

Governor Atkinson's original idea of making ladies colonels is proving quite popular.

Yesterday Governor Taylor, of Tennessee, commissioned Miss Nellie Ely as colonel on his staff. Miss Ely is the daughter of Mr. Jesse Ely, of Nashville.
The appointment of Miss Ely was suggested by the visit of the Georgia colonels to Nashville, among whom was Miss Lewis Butt, who up to yesterday was the only lady colonel in the south.

lady colonel in the south.

When Governor Atkinson went on parade with his staff, including Miss Butt, who paraded with her sword at her side with all the other Georgia colonels, it caused the Tennessee colonels to grow green with envy. They thought a young lady colonel was just the thing to grace the governor's staff and they wanted to know why Governor Taylor didn't have one on his staff. Governor Taylor was himself delighted with the fair colonel. He decided that the Death makes great changes. Changes however, are not the same in every home. The father in one family dies; he has thought of such a contingency and protected his loved ones by taking a life insurance policy in a good insurance company. His widow pays off the mortgage on the home; the children continue in school.

The other is a darker picture. The father dies without insurance; the mortgage is foreclosed; the widow takes in sewing; the children quit school and get work in a factory; the whole family have to fight so hard to keep the wolf of hunger and want from the door.

It costs so little to carry a policy in the Bankers' Guarantee Fund Life Association, of Atlanta, that every healthy preferred risk can easily afford to give his loved ones this protection. This association has met with great success, having written over $5,700,000 insurance the first three years, and has paid every claim in full before due, at a cost less than half the old line sates. Judge Fitzgerald, in his charge to the jury, said the trial was an exceedingly important one. It was an action brought by the public at large, in the name of the people of the state. He would impress it upon the minds of the jury that it was not a civil suit brought to establish private rights or remedy private wrongs. Whether or not the fact alleged in the indictment constituted a crime was a question of law with which they had no concern. It was for them to determine whether or not the evidence established the truth of the alleonly thing he could do to satisfy himself and his staff was to have a pretty young lady for a colonel just like Governor Atinson. Accordingly he, on yesterday, appointed Miss Ely as sponsor for his staff with the rank of colonel. The Tennessee colonels are now delighted and say that they can now rank with the celebrated Georgia colonels.

Miss Butt and Miss Ely occupy very unique positions. So far as is known they are the only commissioned colonels in the entire country. They are pretty, charming young ladies and are not out for woman's rights, as their positions would suggest. Miss Butt was appointed a member of the governor's staff last year during the confecerate veterans' reunion in Richmond. It is a matter of coincidence that on that occasion Miss Butt and Miss Ely formed an acquaintanc that has since grown into quite a strong friendship. Miss Ely was at Richmond as a sponsor for Tennessee and she spent much of her time with Miss Butt, who was there as sponsor for Governor Atkinson's staff. Last week during the trip to Nashville Miss Butt and Miss Ely were much together, but it was not thought at that time that Miss Ely was to be so soon homore by Tennessee's governor as Miss Butt had been by Governor Atkinson.

A Question and an Answer. The editor of The Constitution is in receipt of the following circular letter from The Milwaukee Journal:

Milwaukee, June 18, 1897.-Dear Sir: you kindly explain briefly what you think of the demand for protective tariff by certain senators from the south who were elected as democrats, and what you expect to be the final result of their depart-L. W. NIEMAN, Editor Milwaukee Journal.

This inquiry is evidently addressed to southern newspapers generally, and the question under discussion is one of general interest, The Constitution makes its reply through its editoria

In the first place, the editor of The Milwaukee Journal misconstrues the action of "certain senators from the south' in ascribing their votes on some of the features of the senate tariff bill to be a demand "for protective tariff."

It is to be presumed that the "certain senators" referred to are those who, in the amending process of the senate tariff bill, have proposed duties on various articles; such, for instance, as Senators Vest and Jones, Bacon, Clay, Tillman, McLaurin and others. Before Senator Bacon offered his amendment fixing duty of 20 per cent ad valorem on the ortation of raw cotton, Senators Vest and Jones had offered amendments for which the entire democratic side voted as follows: On all live animals, 20 per cent ad valorem; on barley, 30 per cent ad valorem; on buckwheat, 20 per ad valorem; on buckwheat, 20 per ly fighting in the Nile valley before the cent ad valorem; on corn or maize, 20 per cent ad valorem.—(Congressiona Record, pages 1901-1905.)

It will be seen, therefore, that, in stead of "certain senators" having made an exceptional record, the entire democratic membership of the senate voted in pursuance of the policy of the party ne of the democratic senators are in favor of a protective tariff-all are in favor of a revenue tariff—the democratic senators standing upon the following leclaration of the national democratic

If it were possible to meet the expense of the government by other resources tter than by the levy of a revenue tariff, the democratic senators would have unanimously opposed the imposing of a tariff on any article. Experience has demonstrated the fact, however, that the est method of raising revenue to meet the expenses of the government is by import duties; and the difference between the republican and democratic parties is as to whether or not the duties so levied shall be for revenue or protection purposes. The democratic demand is not for, but decidedly against, a protective tariff. The republican demand is for not only a revenue, but for protective tariff—a 'tariff levied not so much with the view of raising dequate revenue, as of fostering certain favored industries and building up a favored class which hopes to pros per by government favoritism, while other industries may take care of themselves as best they can. The democratic idea is clearly expressed in the platform declaration that there shall be no discrimination "between classes or sections;" and that "tariff duties should be levied for purposes of revenue-such duties to be so adjusted as to operate equally throughout the country. This was the idea of Senators Jones and Vest in offering the amendments providing a duty on certain products of the farm, and it was the idea of Senato in seeking to have the tariff bill so amended that, if the wool growers of west were to receive protection on wool, the cotton growers of the should have at least the same ecognition.

Unfortunately the Dingley bill has Unfortunately the Dingley bill has mg since lost—if it ever possessed—any edeeming features that were intended give it the qualities of a revenue measure. It has been doctored by the trusts and monopolies to such an extent as to make it representative only of the inormate demands of gigantic combinations of capital which are powerful enough to use the government as an instrument to protect them is their schemes to defeat competition, and to enrich themselves at the expense of the people. As such, the tariff bill now under discussion in the senate will be opposed by the democrat-ic senators when the final vote is reached. The democratic senators have endeavored to so amend the measure as to make it acceptable, and their effort at amendment has been on the line of the democratic platform. Having failed in their honest purpose to make it a revenue measure and being opposed to a tariff built on the protective principle, they will vote against the bill; and it will become apparent to the editor of The Milwaukee Journal that he has misconstrued the position of the democratic senators, who, instead of demanding a protective tariff, are vigorously oppos

As to the "final result of their departure," it will be seen when the bill comes to a vote that there will be no departure—for the democratic senators will vote probably as a unit against the inordinate demands of a measure which admittedly fails in its purpose to raise sufficient revenue to meet the demands of the government, and which is manifestly constructed on the principle that a favored few combinations of wealth and certain specially selected enterprises shall profit at the expense of the public; and through the failure of congress to levy a revenue tariff so "adjusted as to operate equally throughout the country and not discriminate between classes or sections."

England in the Soudan.

Since the British jubilee celebration has passed into history, leaving behind it only a faint afterglow of loyal enthusiasm, Great Britain will now direct her attention, in all probability, to the reconquest of the Soudan. Several months have elapsed since the eyes of the world were last fastened upon the Soudan, and, naturally, there is some curiosity on the part of the reading public to know what changes, if any, have occurred in the situation.

A recent dispatch received from London states that matters have been progressing quietly along the Nile, and that by the middle of July 200 miles of railway will have been constructed across the desert from Wady Halfa to Abu Hamed. The completion of this line will greatly facilitate the handling of British troops in the African interior and may possibly result in the overwhelming victory for the British cause during the next few months. Sir Her-Kitchener, the general in charge of the Soudanese expedition, is now in London, together with several of his subordinate officers, but he expects to return to his troops by the 1st of July. For some time past the British troops have been stationed at Merwai, a point just south of Dongola, along the railway line which is now in course of construc tion. As soon as Sir Herbert Kitchener arrives, which will not be later than the middle of next month, it is thought that orders will be given to the troops to move directly upon Abu Hamed, the present terminus of the Nile railway. If this attack is successful, the expedition will then move with a bold front toward the coveted Soudan. During the early part of the year it was thought that little resistance on the part of the natives would be encountered by the roya! troops before reaching Khartoum, but this illusion has recently been dispelled by actual contact with the natives. Some two or three weeks ago quite a bloody skirmish occurred between a detachment of the British forces and several hundred armed dervishes near the fourth cataract of the Nile. From this clash it is evident that the natives are only waiting for the expedition to resume its march toward the Soudan. Unless present indications r cent ad valorem; on corn meal, 20 siasm, however, is said to prevail among the British troops at this time; and in spite of the disastrous campaign of 1884, in which General "Chinese" Gordon lost his life, there seems to be a most intense eagerness on the part of the troops to begin hostilities. They laugh at the idea of being routed by the dervishes, and profess to be confident of certain success. The world at large, however, does not share this confidence, for the simple reason that no human computation can tell how many swarthy natives may spring from the ground to oppose the onward march of the expedition. Success was predicted in 1884, but disastrous failure resulted; it was pre-dicted again in 1896, but failure was again experienced. On what grounds, therefore, can the troops base their confidence in the present emergency? Without denying the splendid discipline and courage of the British troops, the issue of the campaign is something which time

Recent dispatches received from Madrid state that intense excitement prevails in Spain, and that liberal sentiment within the past few days has become menacing and revolutionary. The leaders of the party declare in most emphatic terms that the policy of the present administration is fraught with direful consequences to Spain, and that before the next cortes assembles the conservative government must be overthrown. In order to bring about this overthrow of the government the liberals intend to wage a most vigorous campaign during the next few months. Upon a bold and explicit declaration of principles they will go before the people of Spain and ask for support and approval. Since the last general election it cannot be denied that liberal sentiment has steadily grown in strength throughout the kingdom, and that today the people are overwhelmingly on the side of the liberals This is largely due, of course, to the brutal and ferocious tactics of General Weyler, who has succeeded in exhausting the treasury of the kingdom without accomplishing one lots of good on the island. They feel, too, that the enormities committed by the Spanish butcher are mainly responsible for the attitude which the United States government has assumed toward Spain. Still another element which enters into this popular discontent is the manner in which the liberal party has been treatwhich the liberal party has been treated by the conservative ministry. These various considerations make it evident that without some decided change in the situation, the next cortes will be overwhelmingly controlled by the fiberals. If the liberals capture the legislative assembly, this will, of course, necessitate a change of ministry to harmonize with the political complexion of the cor-tes, and reform measures can then be there is nothing which can bring the Spanish factions together short of the on the part of this government in regard As matters now stand, Prest dent McKinley seems to be in no hurry to execute the expressed American people; and what the future has in store for Cuba heaven alone

"A Hot Brick"

The following is a reproduction of a front-page cartoon from The Chicago Chronicle. It is somewhat reduced here, occupying two full columns in The Chronicle under the suggestive line, "A

The Chicago Chronicle was, at the time of the last meeting of the national democratic convention in Chicago, the only democratic morning newspaper of that state. On the adjournment of the convention it toined the ranks of the malcontents and the deserters and became an ardent supporter of McKinley and went wild on the subject of "sound money," "national honor," the mills to labor, rather than the mints to free coinage," and other campaign catch-penny vagaries which were employed to divert the attention of the masses from the real issue, in order that the money power might become master of the situation.

No newspaper ever had a better opportunity than The Chronicle-and yet it trailed the colors of the party in the midst of the battle: went to the rear. and bobbed up serenely as one of the enthusiastic shouters over the victory of the enemy?

Now, as the truth of the situation beins to dawn upon The Chronicle, it finds it a most difficult matter to control its inclination to make public avowal of its contrition.

If, instead of having labeled its excellent cartoon "A Hot Brick." Chronicle had substituted the line, The Gold Brick," its *pology would have been complete; but, under the circumstances, the open confession of having been bunkoed by the McKinley nonsense last fall can be taken as fair evidence of the fact that The Chronicle is on the road to recovery from its violent attack of "sound money," McKinleyism, "national prosperity," and other similar ailments which were contagious last fall and which, while seizing some democrats and some democratic newspapers, left 6.500,000 democrats well and hearty able to answer to the regular roll call of the party. Now, that The Chronicle knows that it was made a victim of the "gold brick" last fall, taking it in the belief that the advocacy of McKinlevism was the nearest road to prosperity, it is time for it to out further ado to get back into party lines.

Yes, There Has Been a Change. An official organ of the past and present administration, which is edited from the Valdosta postoffice, finds room to print this: If we remember correctly, The Lawrence ville Herald refused to publish an adver tisement of The Atlanta Constitution less than two years ago because it regarded The Constitution as an enemy of democratic principles. It now stands right with The Constitution. There has been a change somewhere. The principles have not changed. As to what The Lawrenceville Herald may or may not have done in times past. when the time came for the test to true democracy it stood pat with the party and the people, and refused to be led by the promises of false gods. In the days when a trusting people had not awak-ened to the fact that they were being betrayed by those whom they had placed in power, there was a natural reluctance to recognize the unwelcome truth. Becoming once convinced, they threw off their indifference and rallied to the cause of truth and justice.

Yes, there has been a change, in which not only The Herald, but the people, "stand right with The Constitution. The principles have not changed, but the people are no longer blind as to the line of discussion. As well stated by The Sylvania Telephone:

A Remedy Proposed.

There is nothing more certain than that the people are growing tired of being used as footballs to be thrown about by the contending classes which thrive upon protection.

The McKinley act of 1890 was a clearcut measure of protection, sailing under its proper name. This was succeeded by the Wilson bill in which the terms "luxuries" and "free list" served the purpose quite as well-as under systems there were those who fattened upon the public bounty. The man who, under a republican administration, urge protection as a measure of safety to American interests, resorts to the dodge of securing a heavy duty on what he terms "luxuries" under a democratic ad ministration, and what he cannot label by that name he has scheduled upon the free list. Under either system it is the people who have the bill to pay.

Whether the lobbyist before the com mittee on ways and means be labeled "protection" or "luxury," to suit the character of the administration in power the same log-rolling scenes were nessed, and the people find their pockets depleted with equal rapidity. What is wanted in order to get free from the cormorants which hover over the national capitol is a change of method, and a substitution of honest taxation In this the state of Georgia, in the constitution of 1877, has led the way in the provision that there shall be no free list, save a limited one for churches and schools, and that taxation shall be upon an ad valorem basis. This removes all log rolling and trading between contending interests and places all the people upon an absolute equality. Savannah has no advantage over Atlanta, nor Macon over Columbus. The same poli-cy has been established by the state and interstate railroad commissions in regard to rates. Adopting the same plan, why not change tariff legislation from a scramble between conflicting interests-equally vexatious because artificial under all administrations-and make it merely the mathematical one as to what ad valorem percentage will bring in enough money to meet the government needs. Such policy would transfer the interest of the people from the amount to be raised to the items which call for it, a pruning of which would lead to a diminution of the public expenditures.

As long as we adhere to an artificial basis of raising revenue, there will be log-rolling, resulting in the robbery of the many for the few, but let the ad valorem system prevail, and then every man pays his own taxes and no more.

Not Radical Enough.

On next Thursday a new measure will go into effect in the state of Pennsylvania, and the result of its operation the other states of the union

The measure provides for a tax of 3 cents per day to be levied upon corporations in the state for every unnaturalized foreign laborer employed. Recent investigations have disclosed the fact that several thousand foreign laborers are now residing within the state limits, and that native-born laborers are placed at a very great disadvantage. The real truth of the matter is that Pennsylvania is suffering from hard times: but instead of tracing the present demoralized condition of things back to its proper source the legislature is blind enough to be lieve that the imposition of this small tax will accomplish the good results anticipated. If the grievance were a superficial one, this remedy might do, but, unhappily, the grievance lies far is demanded. Still the operation of the new statute in Pennsylvania will be observed with interest by the country at large.

of which is clinched by the declaration that "silver dollars circulate now at the same value as gold because the government had pledged itself to keep them redeemed in gold, thus keeping up their value." This moves The Tribune to say:

"Indeed! If the editor of The Times should take a bag of silver dollars to the government treasury and demand to have them exchanged for gold, the officials would laugh at him; and should he persist, most likely he would be sent to the lunatic asylum. The government never has, and never will promise to exchange gold money for silver money on demand. Silver is the poor man's money," says The Times. "It is used in paying him for his products and his labor." This being true, should not The Times try to get as much silver money as possible in circulation, that the poor man may get as large a price as possible for his products and his labor? 'Gold is used by those men who want to lock it up in their vaults.' Well then, brother, believing this how can you have the heart to oppose silver money and favor gold? Why will you stand in with the oppressors of your people, when you cannot give a good reason for your action, and by your own confession you play into the hand of the hoarder?"

Georgia in Nashville.

Captain D. G. Purse, in The Savannah News, expresses the opinion that Georgia leads the world at the Nashville exposition in an exhibit illustrative of the capabili-ties of her soil for diversified farming. It is in the contribution of John A. Manget, of Cobb county, to the exhibit of the Nasi ville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, in charge of Colonel J. B. Killebrew, Colo-nel Killebrew has gathered together for the railroad, as its contribution to the Tennes-see Centennial exposition, a wonderful display of farm products, minerals, woods and curios, but he points the visitor with greatest pride to Mr. Manget's seventy-three products from a twenty-five-acre farm, eleven of which are grass or forage crops, disproving the oft heard assertion of northerners that the south is deficie forage crops. Mr. Manget is a brother of Mrs. D. R. Thomas, of Savannah.

Discussing the Blalock Committee. From The Early County, Ga., News. The Blalock committee and Commission Nesbitt are having anything but a feast over the examination of the latter's books. An evident desire, upon the part of the committee, to pounce upon Colonel Nesbitt and injure him in the eyes of the people of Georgia for whom he has done so much, has been apparent from the outet of the investigation of his department. This we are sorry to see. This, indeed, is not what we expected of a committee, the importance of whose work, fairly, faithful-ly and effectually done, is of so much interest to every taxpaying citizen of the state.

We highly indorsed the proposed work of weeks ago, believing then, not now, that it would do its work with malice toward none, without fear, favor or affection, but it has already shown the dagger up its

Surely no honest man in Georgia would wish to screen Commissioner Nesbitt from a public servant, managing a great public trust, and should be held subject to closest investigation at any time and strictest ac-countability at all times; yet it is altogether unnecessary for the Bialock committee, or any other, to go into his office picking their teeth with butcher knives, or to turn the leaves of his ledgers with pitch forks. It is highly discreditable to the Blalock committee that it did not resolve in the outset to do its work behind closed doors, been its findings private until the meeting. r unnecessary for the Blalock comm keep its findings private until the meeting of the legislature, and to that body, first and only, report the result of its

We shall not attempt to defend the work done by the geological department of the state, as we are not informed whether it has been wisely conducted or not, but we believe that the abolition of the department et this period of Georgia's history would be a most unwise act, and one which would work injury to the state. Georgia is rich in mineral and agricultural lands, and the thorough investigation has neverbeen given them by the state government which the governments of many other states have given to their domain.

It was a wise saying of the oracle at Delphi—"Know thyself"—and it is applicable to states as well as individuals. It may be said that as yet Georgia does not know itself, and it needs to possess this knowledge in order to communicate it to the outside world, the attention and interest of which we are now striving to attract

To do away with the department now

To do away with the department now would be to take a retrogressive step, one which is not in keeping with a progressive state like Georgia, which lays claim to the title of "Empire State of the South."

From The Americus, Ga.. Times-Recorder. It is stated that ex-Governor Northen draws a salary from every railroad in Georgia, and hinted that Governor Atkinson will assume a like position as soon as he retires from the gubernatorial chair. The Coronation Stone.

Those who have visited Westminster Abbey and have seen the coronation stone will be interested to know that Mr. James Hilton has recently investigated its history. There existed in early times a belief that the stone was originally taken from Palestine to Egypt, and thence to Scotland. But very careful geological investigations, Mr. Hilton says, have proved without doubt that the stone originally came from a Scottish quarry. It was used for coronations at Dunstaffnage, and in A. D. 324 was removed to Scone for protection. In 1998 Edward I brought it to Westminster Abby together with the ancient coronation sair and regalla.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Washington Street Paving. Editor Constitution—I read in Sunday's edition of The Constitution the article of Mr. Stewart Woodson and I thoroughly agree with him in all that he has stated. I for one do not wish a wooden pavement on Washington street. stated. I for one do not wish a wooden pavement on Washington street. Wooden pavements were tried in Memphis and abandoned. Some persons contended that the yellow fever was caused by them.

In addition to the reasons given by Mr. Woodson in his letter, I do not think it is right for the city of Atlanta to repave any street which has been once paved until all of the streets of Atlanta are paved. There are a great many side streets which ought to be paved and it is not fair that money be taken from the city treasury and expended on streets which have had their chance until all are provided for.

In addition to that, property owners ought not to be taxed a second time where they have once been taxed for paving.

What the city ought to do is to keep in thorough repair every one of its streets which have been paved.

I had much rather have a good macadam pavement than to have brick or asphalt. Many horses have fallen upon the brick and asphalt streets in Atlanta and some have been killed, and on account of the falls the lives of people in the vehicles have been put in peril.

Let the city give all of the other streets a chance before they spend any more money on Washington street. Yours very truly, Atlanta, Ga., June 28, 1897.

Opposed To the Paving.

Opposed To the Paving.

Editor Constitution—I think the residents of Washington street owe Mr. Woodson a debt of gratitude for protesting against the paving of their street with wooden blocks.

While I am only a woman without "a political pull," and but little property of any sort, I feel it is my duty to hold up Mr. Woodson's hands in my feeble way by adding my protest against wooden block, or any other kind of paving. Baltimore had many of her streets paved with wooden blocks, covered with a preparation in which the principle ingredient was tar, and I was informed by citizens that the beautiful city had been scourged with typhold fever, and it was attributed to the decay of the wood. Since that time much of the pavement has been replaced with a different kind.

I cannot see the necessity for new pavement on our street, and I am sure "a stitch in time"—a little judicious patching—would be all that is required to make it altogether lovely, and as good as it has ever been. It seems to me it is the duty of the city government to have this done, and not call on the resident taxpayers for a cent. I well remember when our assessment was paid we were assured that it was the last time we would be called on, as it would last forever.

MARY L. MLENDON.

Exploding a Charge. Editor Constitution—I note that in a pub-lic communication Mr. Swift, of the inves-tigating committee of the house of repre-sentatives, makes the statement that the department of agriculture pays $17.50 per thousand for envelopes which are available to other departments and for commercial department of agriculture pays $17.50 per thousand for envelopes which are available to other departments and for commercial purpose generally for $3.50 per thousand.

In order to explain this matter, I wish to say, in justice to Commissioner Nesbitt, that we filled his order for 5.000 envelopes. Of this number, $.000 were stamped with two-cent stamps and lithographed, and 2.000 were lithographed linen envelopes. As this was the department's first order for lithograph work, the cost of the original stone was included in the statement, and the work was done as cheaply as can be done anywhere in 'he United States. The 3.000 stamped envelopes cost, from the government, $21.80 per thousand; and had Mr. Swift investigated this matter closely he would have found that, if the services of a shrewd purchasing agent might have been secured, the government could not have been jewed down to $3.50—while the stamps actually used on the envelopes cost 2 cents each—or $20 per thousand—leaving only $1.80 per thousand for the plain envelopes as purchased from the government.

Knowing Mr. Nesbitt's splendid service for the state of Georgia, I write this to correct the flagrant injustice done him. Respectfully, JOSEPH E. BROWN, President, Orr Stationery Company.

To the Mayor and City Council: People who ride bicycles have much to thank you for in the stand you have taken to prevent reckless and rapid riding in the city. Can't you go a little further and pass and enforce a law requiring all riders to raise the hardle bars so that they will be obliged to sit up straight and then be able to see ahead. As most negroes and many white boys ride, it is difficult for them to see what is in front of them, and often we see riders go for more than a block without once looking up, and we often have to ring our bell more than once before this class of riders will pay attention or give us the part of the street we are entitled to. If riders would take the correct position on the wheel it would be better for the health and more enjoyable—but with this we have nothing to do; but when our lives are endangered by a class who insist upon lying flat down on the wheel like a snake on a fence rail, but differ from the snake in having the eyes below instead of above, it is time to protest. Respectfully, OBSERVER. you go a little further and pass and en

ADDRESS BY WALTER B. HILL

The Ex-Justice Was One of Georgia's Ablest Jurists

HE DRAFTED THE SECESSION ORDINANCE Former Chief Justice Bleckley Pays a Tribute to His Memory-Justice Simmons Responds.

A portrait of Hon. Eugenius A. Nisbet was presented to the state supreme court yesterday morning and was accepted on behalf of the court and the state by Chief Justice Simmons. The presentation was made by Mr. Walter B. Hill, of Macon, for the family of Judge James T. Nisbet, of Macon, a son of the former justice.

Justice Eugenius Nisbet was one of the three members of Georgia's first supreme bench. He was an able and upright judge and his decisions are among the judicial classics of the country. Born in the early part of this century, he lived on until al-most the last quarter. For half a century he was a prominent figure in the public affairs of the state and he left his impress strongly on the history of his time. He wrote the ordinance of secession. He was frequently in the general assembly in his early years; he was on the supreme bench for eight years, and he was a distinguished practitioner for many years.

All the members of the supreme bench and a number of attorneys were in court when the presentation was made. Chief Justice Simmons presided. Mr. Hill paid a high tribute to Judge Nisbet and read a brief sketch by ex-Chief Justice Bleckley. Chief, Justice Simmons replied impressively.

Mr. Hill in his address said:

"I have the honor, formally, to present to the court the portrait, which already has been placed upon the walls of the courtroom, of Hon. Eugenius A. Nesbit, one of the first judges of this court, in behalf of the family of his son, Judge James T. Nisbet, of Macon.

Character in the Countenance. Character in the Countenance.

"As we look upon this 'counterfeit presentment of the deceased jurist we can read the distinguishing characteristics of his mind, charcter and his work. The ruing passion of a life will inevitably write itself out upon the human countenance. Sensuality will brand its stigma there, while the prayer of him who seeks for purity will ever make the human countenance its divinest altar.' Wordsworth had this conception in maid when he wrote of the mountain mind who haunted glen and brook:

"Beauty born of murmuring sound "Beauty born of murmuring sound Shall pass into her face." Shall pass into her face.

"In like manner, the law will write its impress on the features of its devotee. The bent shoulders and the classic lines of this face show the austerle, self-denial and the patient toil of a man willing, for the sake of mastering the law, to scorn delights and live laborious days. His mouth is firm, compressed and sharply defined, like the head-note of a well-considered case. His eye is clear and keen, like the point of an unanswerable argument. And on the whole face we read the record, of a long and patient study of the law, of widest fields traversed, of stoutest difficulties mastered, of legal science compassed, conquered and known.

Sketch of His Life.

Sketch of His Life.

Sketch of His Life.

"Eugenius A. Nisbet was born in Greene county, Georgia, Décamber 7, 1803. His father was Dr. James Nisbet, who was one of the framers of the constitution of 1790. He graduated with first honor at the University of Georgia, and subsequently at the famous law school of Judge Gould, at Litchfield, Conn. At the age of twenty he began the practice of law at Madison, Morgan county. In 1825 he married Miss Amanda Battle, who presided over his home until her death in 1865. Setween 1825 and 1837 he several times represented Morgan county in the house of representatives and the senate of the state. In 1837 he removed to Macon and there entered upon a large and lucrative practice. In 1838 he was elected to congress; was re-elected in 1840, but in 1841 resigned his seat in order to return to the practice of the law. In 1845 he was elected one of the judges of the supreme court, then first established, and remained the practice of the law. In 1845 he was elected one of the judges of the supreme court, then first established, and remained on the bench eight years. Lumpkin and Warner were his compeers; and this great tri-umvirate fixed the new court firmly in the admiration and the affections, not only of the bar, but of all the people of the state. In 1863 he returned to his profession and continued in the practice until his death, in March, 1871. In 1861 he was a member of the convention which assembled in January of that year. He wrote the ordinance of secession and was chairman of the committee that reported it. In 1868, in recognition of his eminence as a man of letters, as well as a jurist, the University of Georgia conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. For forty years he was a ruling ejder in the Presbyterian church and lived a life of devoted and unostentatious plety.

Judicial Character.

Judicial Character.

"As a judge, his unique distinction lies in the fact that, while in some qualities some of his compeers excelled him, yet he easily excelled them as a perspicuous and polished expositor of the law. This is, indeed, a high excellence, for there is no science that so severely taxes the human brain as the science of the expression of the law.

science that so severely taxes the numaribrain as the science of the expression of the law.

"The writers of the textbooks, the judges of other courts, and such annotators as Hare and Wallace indulge in frequent quotations from his decisions. He is the only southern jurist (along with Judge Bleckley) admitted into that legal Vahhalla Snyder's 'Great Decisions' by Great Judges.' He loved to 'scatter the flowers of polite literature over the thorny brakes of jurisprudence;' and although his opinions are not ornate, yet the simple elegance and rhetorical finish of his opinions were doubtless largely due to his literary taste and culture.

"In conclusion, I have the great pleasure of using an estimate of Judge Nisbet's judicial work and character, prepared at my request, to be read on this occasion by ex-Chief Justice Bleckley. I regard it as most fortunate that this occasion not only marks the formal presentation of the portrait of the great judge to the court whose early history he so much adorned, but that it has elicited a tribute so worthy of his memory:

Judge Bleckley's Tribute.

Judge Bleckley's Tribute.

Familiar as it is, nothing is more striking and wonderful than individuality. In every personality there is a blending of the particular with the general, the unique with the common, the dissimilar with the similar, the individual with the multitude, the man or woman with humanity. Individuality is often as pronounced and distinctly marked inwardly as outwardly—in the mental man as in his form, face and features. It was so with Judge Nisbet. The portrait of him painted by the artist, and which brings before us with life-like expression and accuracy his personal appearance, is not more vivid and distinct than the likeness of his mind which he has himself drawn in his judicial opinions. In the light of thought, a student of these opinions sees his intellect and intelligence with as clear and bright a vision as any which the resources of form and color can lend to the light of day.

His great characteristic was the fusion and complete equipoise of his logical and Judge Bleckley's Tribute.

artistic facultice—faculties which were cooperative in all his work. Even his severest thoughts were born in beauty, not clothed with it afterwards by a process of literary talloring. As a result of this his word costumes were all close and elegant fits, never suggesting dress, much less over-dress. The effect always produced is one of internal symmetry and proportion without any reminder of external decoration or adornment. Flowers indeed these are, chaste, delicate, refined; but they are inwrought, inwoven, never overlaid or superadded. His mind was exceptionally robust and vigorous, but at the same time prim, dainty and exquisitely sensitive. In this respect, uniting the practical with the artistic, he was a combination of the Roman and the Greek.

His intellect alone is reflected in his opinions. We search them in vain for any trace of emotion, save a calm love of justice and a loyal devotion to sound morality and the reign of law. Nor do we find them either married or embellished by the products of imagination. His art was as exclusively intellectual as his thought. Its office was to formulate, not to invent. It was executive, not creative. This limitation, whether self-imposed or set by nature, saved him from being a poet and qualified him the better for being a judge. His opinions are models of strength, clearness and elegance. Nearly all of them are full of legal meat. Extended and elaborate as many of them are, they are not degraded by padding, nor distended by irrelevancies, whether of fact or thought. They make the impression of completeness, but not of over-elaboration. So rich are they in legal learning that from them alone and the authorities they cite an intelligent layman might become a fairly good lawyer. This is so, though are marked by a rare uniformity and evenness of the Georgia reports. His opinions are marked by a rare uniformity and evenness of power, both of thought and expression. They are all at the same temperate elevation, affording no elimpse either of a boiling point or of a zero Ranked according to merit, there are few higher names than his on the judicial annals of this country, or even of England. And his fame deserves to be cherished by the bench and bar of Georgia as a proud and precious inheritance.

Justice Simmons Accepts.

The portrait was accepted on behalf of the court by Chief Justice Simmons, who spoke as follows:

"When this court removed from the old capitol building to its present spacious quarters in the new, an invitation was extended to relatives and friends of former justices of the court to have placed in the courtroom pictures of those justices. In several instances this has been done, and today another is added to our valued collection. Still others, we trust, will follow, and to this end the invitation is cordially and heartily renewed. There can be no place more suitable for the portraits, no adornment more appropriate for our walls. It is most fitting that the faces of those who once presided over the court should look down from the walls of this room, the abode of the court whose past they made and whose future will ever unmistakably show the results of their learned and painstaking labor. It is therefore, with no little pleasure and pride that we now receive a painting of one of the first three justices of this court, the Hon. Eugenius A. Nisbet, than whom our state has produced no advocate more gifted, no jurist more learned, no judge more able, and no gentleman more true.

"In the opinions of this truly great judge, as they appear in the first fourteen volumes of Georgia reports, is the proudest monument of his worth—a monument of undying and unending fame. These results of his judicial labors combine sound and convincing legal argument with great literary merit, and a careful study of them is of inestimable benefit to all who seek a greater knowledge either of law or of legal reasoning. They are pointed out with pride and satisfaction by the Georgian, while abroad they attract much attention and most favorable comment and are classed with the opinions of the greatest judges of England and America. They will ever stand as a testimonial of the unquestioned and superior ability of their learned and gifted author."

MURDER MAY BE THE CHARGE McClain Must Await Developments in

His Little Boy's Condition. The case of Thomas McClain, charged with an assault with intent to murder his Little five-year-old son, was reached early afterday morning in Judge Candler's court, but a postponement was ordered on the motion of Solicitor Hill. "I understand the little boy is at the point of death." said Solicitor Hill, "and I think it advisable that the trial of this man's case be postponed until it can be seen what will be the result of the wound."

It was shown that the physicians of the hospital who have been attending the little child made the statement that the child was in a critical condition and might die at any time. Judge Candler alloved the postponement and the case went over until the next term of the court. I think it advisable that the trial of this

STORM SUFFERERS ARE NOW STARVING

Great Hurricane of Last September Is Still Felt in Florida.

SUBSISTING ON BREAD ALONE

Relief Given Soon After the Great Storm Has Been Used Up.

TOUCHING APPEAL IS MADE FOR HELP

Relief Committee Is Besieged with Requests for Help from the Destitute.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 28 .- Urgent appeals for aid are coming in afresh from that part of Florida which was devastated by the great hurricane of September 29th. The destitution appears to be greater than at any previous time since the catastrophe. Ilachua county is situated in the center of the peninsula, midway between Jackson-ville and Cedar Keys. A request for help has been received from citizens of Trenton in which the following statements are made:

"While we most gratefully acknowledge the generous assistance received directly after our prosperous country was almost devastated, still the pitiful condition of our people inspires this earnest appeal for help at this season.

"Many families within our borders are upon the very verge of starvation—are now subsisting upon dry bread without—even the hope of getting this sort of food when the present scanty supply is exhausted.

"The distressing cry for food is heard in almost every quarter, and unless some speedy relief is secured great suffering will be the terrible result.

"While other aid is greatly needed, still we shall only solicit the means upon which life can subsist."

The relief committee at Gainesville states that it is receiving a great many earnest that it is receiving a great many earnest appeals for help and is powerless to give much assistance. The funds in the hands of the committee have been exhausted. From another source it is learned that the necessity for immediate relief is very pressing. Corn and bacon are what are most needed.

most needed.

In view of these revelations the Jacksonvills storm relief association has decided to ask for additional help and to importune the governor to aid by making appeals to the citizens and towns throughout Florida.
An appeal is also to be made through the mayors, boards of trade and other local organizations asking that the people come together and contribute what they can.
The Jacksonville association has disbursed
$8,260, having in the treasury only a little $3,200, having in the treasury only a little more than $700, which has been voted for the purchase of bacon, flour, meal, grits and corn, upon requisition from the local committee asking for help.

AGNES SCOTT INSTITUTE.

A better location than Decatur for a great institution it would be difficult to find. It is only six miles from the center of Atlanta, with which it is connected by two electric lines and the Georgia railroad, thus giving it all the advantages of a great city without the disadvantages. For healthfulness, order, attractiveness and high moral tone it is justly celebrated.

In this beautiful suburban town, on a commanding site stand the elegant buildings of . the Agnes Scott Institute. The building is constructed of brick and trimmed with marble; is heated by steam and lighted by electricity, and has all modern conveniences.

The Institute offers four courses, viz: Literary, Classical, Scientific and Normal. The latter is now offered for the first time and affords the finest advantages for preparation for the high calling of teaching. The faculty has been most carefully selected and is composed of trained and successful teachers in every de-

The lecturers are practical educators, professors in leading colleges and universities of Georgia North Carolina and Tennessee. The lectures will be on educational lines, and will enrich the course of study.

The advantages offered by the Institute in Music and Art are unsurpassed in the State.

The religious privileges and high spiritual tone of the institution will commend it to all thinking parents. The highest estimate is placed upon the formation and development of character without which all other attainments are useless.

The record of the Institute is a most encouraging and gratifying one. But next session promises to be in advance of all previous sessions. Finer advantages and larger opportunities will be offered. For catalogues containing full information, address

Atlanta's Mayor Is Delighted with the Tennessee Centennial.

HE SAYS IT IS A GOOD SHOW

Speaks in Praise of the Hospitality of the Nashville People and of Their Exposition.

Mayor Collier resumed his duties at the city hall yesterday, but put in the day tellhis friends about the Nashville Centennial and how well the Cotton States direc-tors were treated while there Friday and Sciurdey. Mr. Collier says the show at Nashville is a good one and he speaks enthusiastically of the hospitality and kindness of the Nashville people.

"The Centennial officers and directors and the people of Nashville treated our party with distinguished consideration," said Mr.

Collier, "and every member of the Atlanta party was looked after during the stay in the Centennial City. We were shown many social and official courtesies and every moment of the time was taken up in some delightful manner.

"The addes of Nashville were characteristically hospitable and clever and the la dies of our party were handsomely enter-tailed, as well as the gentiemen. Georgia and Atlanta were well represented at the several social functions given in their honor and the state should feel proud of its conquests at the big show. President Thomas and every member of the exposition board extended every possible courtesy to our party and the Cotton States directors will extend a hearty vote of thanks for the treetment accorded them while in Nash-will extend a hearty vote of thanks for the treetment accorded them while in Nashville.

"As to the Centennial proper, I was delighted with it as an exposition. The Tennessee people have got together a creditable and most beneficial exhibit representing the progress and advancement of the state. The exposition is a good one and many of its features have not been surpassed by other expositions. The buildings and grounds are well arranged and the exhibits are interesting and representative. There are some features of the snow which surpass our exposition and others in which the Cotton States exceed. Upon the whole, the Centennial is a success and it will undoubtedly result in great benefit to Nashville and the people of Tennessee.

"The especial feature of the Centennial which impressed me very favorably is the art exhibit. The Parthenon, or art building, is a magnificent structure and it is crowded with an exhibit of fine art pictures and statuary. The display excels that of the Cotton States exposition and it is really wonderful. This feature of the Centennial is a grand one and the building is one of unequaled interest and attraction, because of its historic advantages. The building is a permanent one and when the smaller structures about it are removed after the exposition is a Parthenon will, indeed, appear magnificent and grand.

"The illumination of the exposition frounds and buildings is splendid and brilliantly effective. The sight at night is a grand one, and the Centennial people have an immense electrical display in this respect. Many other features of the show are fine and upon the whole I think the people of Tennessee have reason to feel proud of their effort to show the advantages and resources of the state. Its progress and development are well demonstrated by the Cartennial."

VETO IS EXPLAINED

The Mayor Tells Why He Vetoed Mr. Camp's Resolution.

CITY IS OPPOSED TO CROSSINGS

Mr. Camp's Wrath-Says Grace Crossings Are Not Wanted.

Mayor Collier is not perturbed about the wrath of Councilman Milt Camp. He thinks the councilman is unduly wrought up about that veto of the Alabama street grado crossing scheme.

During the mayor's absence last week During the mayors absence last week Mr. Camp had something to say regarding the veto message sent to the council by Mr. Collier the day of his departure. It was quite a surprise to Mr. Camp to hear that his pet resolution calling for a grade crossing had been turned down and he lost no time in giving vent to his feelings of indig-

He declared the veto was unpopular with the west side people and that they demand an outlet by the extension of Alabama street. He said the grade crossing is the best thing to be had, now that it seems impossible to get a bridge at Alabama street. And he has other things to say about the question, all of which have been announced in The Constitution. But Mayor Collier's side of the question announced in The Constitution.

But Mayor Collier's side of the question has not been heard because of his absence in Nashville since the veto. It is given in this wise: Mr. Collier says he vetoed the resolution because it is the policy of the city government to use every means to abolish grade crossings; because it is the policy of the city to lessen the danger to life, limb and property by the crossing of the streets by trains, and the mayor declares that it is not within the bounds of reason and consistency to now put the city in the attitude of advocating grade crossings, after a long crusade against them.

And he says that in view of the negotiations now pending with the railroads looking to the lowering of the tracks or building of bridges and viaducts, it would be a glaring inconsistency for the city to take any step that would be in the nature of an argument or advocacy in favor of grade crossings. Grade crossings are public dangers which should be abolished, says the mayor, and for that reason he pronounces Mr. Camp's wrath as inappropriate, untimely and unwarranted under the circumstances.

So, the issue stands to date:

Mr. Camp is mad.

Mr. Camp is mad.

So, the issue stands Mr. Camp is mad.
Mr. Camp threatens to resign from the Mr. Camp threatens to resign from the Mr. Camp says the courthouse deal will be broken up.

Mayor Collier is imperturbable and stands by his veto.

the members of the association over to her pet scheme of bringing the next annual conference to Atlanta. The Philadelphia Bulletin has the following to say about Miss Wallace's conquests at the conference. Miss Wallace's conquests at the conference:

selves as converts to Atlanta, and when it became apparent that the whole couference was about to get on a toboggan and slide to Atlanta, the valiant champion of Chautauqua's cause, Melvil Dewey, arose and saved the day. Mr. Dewey asked for a postponement of action, which, at any rate, is merely a recommendation to the executive committee. He asked that the conference await the arrival of Miss Mary Emogene Hazeltine, librarian of the James Prendergast Free library, of Jamestown, N. Y., who was on her way to exercise her persuasiveness in favor of the busy Alpaca City in southwestern New York. The conference could in all fairness do no more than wait, and so there was a postponement. The conference had been carried away so far by 'ye fayre ladye' that it for rather tangled over its election, and finally postponed that for several hours, not, however, until some enthuslasts hadeven gone so far as to whisper the name of Miss Wallace to be added to the list of candidates for president."

AND DESCRIPTION OF THE PROPERTY AND ADDRESS OF THE PERSON Wby "Colonel" Lewis

Butt Was Appointed ement that Miss Lewis Butt, led Governor Atkinson and staff nessee Centennial, and was offically recognized as lieutenant colonel, has en the subject of a great deal of pleasant

Those ladies of extreme views very far sway from us who think southern women doctle, and especially ignored in affairs of state, and are not "keeping pace," as they term it, with woman's proprobably rejoice at the anement that a young Georgia woman en appointed on the governor's staff. They will probably commend the advanced ment of Georgia's governor, and imthe fair young lieutenant something of the "new woman" in the extreme sense They probably picture her in square-toed eled shoes, an awkwardly short skirt, tallor coat, spectacles, of course, and a cold, determined manner, and may even suppose that hen appointment is due to her superior knowledge of state politics, her superior knowledge of state politics, and her efficiency in matters pertaining to the tariff, or national statistics. In order to prevent great disappointment on the part of these imaginative people, who may some day see Lleutenant Colonel Butt carrying her sword in some official pageant, it may be as well to publish the fact now that she is young, beautiful and irresistible. They must know that he beaming gray eyes look not through those "mirrors of intellect," the spectacles, but through sweeping lashes under exquisitely arched brows. "A cold, determined" manner never belonged to a woman whose very curls falling like hers about her temples tell of falling like hers about her temples tell of he same unconscious coquetry that belive of pretty mouths. To further lete the pen picture, those who may seen her with the staff on Georgia day at the Tennessee Centennial will re-call a much ruffled muslin gown, a rose trimmed hat and the very bewitching vision she was, when, placing a tiny white gloved hand on the jeweled belt of her sword, she was officially presented to the members of Governor Taylor's staff.

Appreciating this vision of girlish love-liness and realizing the almost ponderous title she bears, one not knowing Georgia's governor might ask, why was she appoint-ed?

Although the governor has eloquently and publicly confessed his devotion for the fair sex, their lofty influences over man and favored their advancement in every movement consistent with his ideal, the "womanly woman," it may not be generally known that the governor has never been known to favor by his attentions, honors or compliments any but a pretty woman. Those closely associated with him in a political and social way assert that his propensity for being joined only with the prettiest when in the presence of women is one that is a fact no less striking than his judgment and diplomacy in the great affairs of state. The publication of this discountains the great of the greaters of the greaters of the greaters of the greaters. discrimination of the governor's by which he puts a premium on womanly beauty could scarcely injure his excellency's prospects in any office to which he might aspire. Though unfortunately all women are not beautiful and agreeable, should are not beautiful and agreeable, should be found that the reputed beauty of Georgia women would prevail among the fair voters, for it is rather surprising to note that the young and the beautiful these advanced days are beginning to consider the rights of citizenship—as well as their sophisticated elders who have studied the matter ss Butt, however, modestly declares that her appointment is entirely due to a circumstance occurring in Richmond at the reunion last year. Being naturally pa-triotic, she was determined that Georgia should be represented and recognized on every occasion where she might lend a hand, so she undertook the laborious task of decorating the hotel where she was a guest. With her own hands she placed every flag and brought out in artistic effect every flag and brought out in artistic effect Georgia colors and Georgia's coat of arms. As the governor and staff were en route to the exercises of the great day they were struck by the decorations that Miss Buth had arranged and stopped and saluted her as she waved her handkerchief from the balcony. En route home after the exercises they called upon her, the governor inviting her to assist him in an informal reception some hours afterwards.

Considering, therefore, the beauty of the fair lieutenant colonel and the avowed preference of Governor Atkinson for wo-men of the fairest type, the question as to why Miss Butt is a member of the staff.

Here, by her beauty and grace, she was not only a bright star of attraction, but only a bright star of attraction, but ably assisted in making the occasion a cess the governor remarked that he ought such beauty and grace would well mbine with the chivalry of his staff, me days afterwards Miss Butt received the formal commission of the "lieutenant colone!," and subsequency the elaborately jeweled sword, a gift from the staff. Though her dainty hands could scarcely wield such a weapon should the more serious duties of the commission be called forth, the very presence of the pretty lleutenant colonel would inspire a bravery, a valor, a chivalry that would bring her fellow members of the staff to none but a glorious victory.

LAST DAY FOR ROADS TO ANSWER

Project Expires.

Other Steps Will Be Taken To Lesser the Street Crossing Danger.

MAYOR COLLIER'S PLAN HAS BEEN OUTLINED

He Proposes To Stop Freight Trains and Switch Engines and Suburban Trains from Crossing Streets.

This is the last day granted the rail-roads in which to make answer on the proposition to lower the tracks in the center of the city. An answer was promised Mayor Collier not later than today, but nothing had been heard from the transportation people last night.

Mayor Collier says he has heard nothing from the railroad representatives, and that he has no idea what they intend to do. A meeting was held a month ago at which the companies promised to take up the question and after consideration advise the city what could be done.

That month expires with today, and unless something is heard from the roads.

less something is heard from the roads Mayor Collier will take other measures to solve the vexatious railroad crossing problem. He has considered the question fully and has made up his mind as to the cour to be pursued. He has fully determined that something must be done to lessen the danger at the Whitehall, Pryor and Loyd street crossings, known as death traps, and if some plan, such as lowering the tracks, tunneling under the city or other plan which will obviate the danger to life plan which will obviate the danger to life and property by the use of the crossings by trains, is not adopted by the roads very soon the mayor will attempt to find a remedy of his own.

It is not the policy of the mayor to antagonize the roads, but he is firmly of the belief that the danger to life is so great at the places mentioned that the city will be justified in taking drastic measures to lessen it. He proposes to regulate the use of the crossings by the railroads. He says there are entirely too many trains passing through the city every day.

The mayor's plan is to ask the council The mayor's plan is to ask the council to adopt an ordinance prohibiting the railroads from running freight trains or switch engines through the city at any hour during the day or before 9 o'clock at night. He proposes to stop the blocking of the crossings by long freight trains, and the frequent use of the tracks by switch engines, not allowing any train or ergine to cross the streets during the day except passenger trains and engines. And he proposes to so regulate the traffic as to prevent the roads from running the suburban hour trains in and out of the depot across Whitehall and Pryor streets. He thinks these trains are a menace to life and property by reason of the great frequency with which they cross the streets. The mayor has other plans by which he thinks the problem can be solved and the danger lessened, if not abolished entirely. And it seems that the council is with the mayor in this matter and some interesting developments must necessarily result from the steps to be taken in the near future. The mayor will probably allow the roads a few days of grace to answer the track lowering proposition, but it is probable that some communication will be sent to the council next Monday bearing on the subject.

HANDSOME NEW CARS PUT OF The Atlanta and West Point Adds Fine Coaches to Fast Trains.

The Atlanta and West Point railroad has dded some handsome new equipments to Its passenger service. The train which came in from Montgomery at 11:40 o'clock yesterday morning and the train which left at 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Montgomery carried new coaches just from are to be added to the baggage cars so that the trains will be solid from end to

In exterior color the coaches resemble the Pullmans. They are sixty-five feet in length and solidily built. Within they are light and handsome and at night are brilliant with the Pintsch gas and the many beveled mirrors which are let in between the windows and at the ends and builkhead partitions. The interior finish is in quarter oak of modern colonial style. Gold leaf has been used in decorating the ceilings. The trimmings are all in solid bronze. The seats are covered with a very fine quality of marcon plush and are of the reversible In exterior color the coaches resemble the of maroon plush and are of the reversible high back, double roll kind. The windows, which so often give passengers more an-noyance than anything else on a trip, are fitted with a self-adjusting sash lock and the passenger can get just as much or just as little ventilation as he wishes. The heating device may not interest any one now, but next winter it will be found that the cars are heated with steam. There are lavatories at each end of the cars and every provision has been made for the comfort of the road's patrons.

With the Gould vestibules there is no further trouble from people climbing upon the platforms and stealing rides and there the platforms and stealing rides and there is no danger in passing from car to car while the train is in motion. BIKES SELECTED FOR THE COPS U

Month of Grace on the Track Lowering | Right Columbia Wheels Have Been Ordered for the Force.

NOTHING FROM THE RAILROADS COPS ON WHEELS A REALITY

Some Lively Comments by Some of the Old Patrolmen.

THEY DON'T TAKE TO "WHEEL DUTY"

The Men To Ride the Wheels To Be Detailed in a Few Days-What Chief Connolly Says.

Yesterday morning the police commis-sioners and Chief Connoily decided upon the bicycles which the department is to The wheel selected is the Columbia, and eight of them have been ordered. They will be ready in a few days, and then the work of detailing the patrolmen for "wheel" duty will be done.

Several days ago the committee from the police board asked all the bicycle agents in the city to meet them at the police barracks with samples of their wheels, and bid on the me. For a day the hall down stairs at the barracks was more like a place for a bicycle meet than anything cise. There were all kinds of bikes, and when the inspection was over it might when the inspection was over it might have well been said without any reflection upon the committee that they had "wheels in their heads."

A decision was reached yesterday morn ing and the committee decided to order the Columbia wheel, and the agents, Messrs. Copeland & Bishop, were instructed to get eight of their best bicycles ready for the police department of Atlanta

Who Will Ride the Wheels. There are twelve patrolmen on the force who know how to ride wheels. It has been intimated that after the commissioners decided to give the wheels a trial several patrolmen went to practicing on the quiet. patrolmen went to practicing on the quiet.

"We have twelve men who are already good riders," said Chief Connolly, "and we will have no trouble in getting good men for the purpose. At first we will have some of the principal streets patrolled with officers on wheels where there is much riding on bicycles, and an effort will be made to stop some of the fast riding and scorching. Then we will have a man always ready for call service with a wheel."

Some Comments by the Cops.

As a general thing the men are not anxious to be detailed to "wheel duty." Sald one of them when discussing the matter yesterday:

"There is going to be some tall guying when the first policemen make their appearance on wheels. And my, won't there be fun for the boys when a cop punctures a tire. If I was riding a wheel and my tire punctured I would sure tote that wheel to the barracks along the back streets."

"Tell me this," remarked another policeman who has been carrying a club for fifteen years and knows something about policing in Atlanta, "tell me what is a policeman going to do when he is chasing a thief on a wheel and the nigger suddenly darts into one of these alleys?"

"Jump off his bike and go after the thief," suggested a new recruit.

Hot Stuff for Reporters.

Hot Stuff for Reporters. "Yes, and come back and find that another thief has stolen his bleycle. These newspaper reporters wouldn't want a better story than that to burn a fellow with," replied the old-timer.

"The price of tacks will go up on account of the increased amand," put in another old-timer.

of the increased demand," put in another old-timer.
"How's that?" asked the new recruit.
"Why, all these thugs-will provide themselves with tacks and when a cop gets after them on a bike they will just scatter a handful of tacks along the street and the officer will hunt for the police barracks with his wheel on his shoulder."
"Say, look here!" asked an outsider, "will the policemen on bicycles be required to ring their bells at all the crossings?"
"You bet your life they will," replied the old-timer, as he examined his coar to see if he had thrown away his button-hole bouquet, "if they dont ring their bells another policeman will make a case against them."
In about a week the "cop on wheels" will be a live and stirring reality in Atlanta.

Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Cotton Letter. Atlanta, June 28.—The improvement of ½ point in Liverpool today was rather better than expected by the trade. As a result of this opening quotations in New York were 2 roints up on the near months and 2 to 2 Foints up on the near menths and 2 to 3 up on the new crop months. The opening was firm under the added influence of reports of hot weather in the south. Subsequently a further improvement was established upon receipt of private telegrems from the south Atlantic and gulf states reporting the weather as excessively hot, with need of rain in some localities. There were apparently orders in our market for Liverpool account and generally the trade has been smaller than for the past two weeks. It is premature as yet to operate in the cottor, market on the theory of a drought after three or four days of hot weather; in fact, the weather, according to the official government report, is not very hot. It has been preceded by fairly good rains, and now, with the thermometer at from 94 to 96 degrees, cotton ought to improve rapidly. The bearish element, however, under the leadership of the Germans, is not noticeably less aggressive. There is a slightly better market for print cloths and a firmer tone. The little bulge in July this morning was established as a result of buying to cover by some belated shorts who found very little cotton for sale. The close showed a gain of 3 to 6 points over the previous close. New York spot sales 1,429 bales; middling 74c. 3 up on the new crop months. The opening The following were the closing qut

Closed very quiet: sales 3,800 bales

New York, June 28.—By Associated Press: the cotton market was a very tame affair boday, opening quiet but firm at an advance of 2 to 4 points. There was further advance of 2 to 4 points, after which her market partially reacted and closed teady at a net advance of 3 to 6 points, peculation was very slack and sales eached a total of but 27,300 bales, one of the smallest markets of recent times. The

The Dry Goods Market.

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, June 28.—The week opened in dry goods with less trading than was anticipated at the close. The buyers were not numerous, the market small and orders were only of fair size. Neither was the tone of the buying changed in any degree from that of last week, weather conditions making the sales of seasonable cottons the principal feature of the trade. Fall goods are still in steady demand, though without any marked activity in any line. Jobbers are still handling clearing sales of small magnitude, and these make an easy market for buyers. In stople cottons there is still a dearth of but hand to mouth orders. Print cloths are without change. Prints are steady in both staples and fancles. In woolen goods for men's wear the market is firm, with re-orders plentiful and low grade goods well sold up. In worsted goods for men's wear there is still speculation to a considerable extent owing to action on the tariff bill.

Southern Exchange Cotton Letter.

Atlanta, June 23.—A continuance of good spot demand at Liverpool today did not bring with it any strength to contracts, and our market has been devoid of interest. The fluctuations have been narrowed and unimportant, although the tone has been dull, but firm. Traders seem undecided how to operate. The very favorable crop outlook has mainly induced the selling of the new crop positions, but at the same time they have been relatively stronger. contrary to our expectations, than July and August. These two months look very cheap considering the price of spots both in New York and New Orleans, and yet they are high when compared to subsequent months. It is just these conditions that make it difficult to diagnose the market and make the trader weary. On statistical grounds July, August and September should be a purchase, but they are at a big premium over October and beyond, both in New York and New Orleans. Then, again, the crop outlook is generally considered as warranting lower prices for positions after September, but they are at a heavy discount compared with July and August. In the meantime a realization of Ellison's expectations as to the smallest visible supply in Europe on October 1st next for many years, the probabilities of which are weekly becoming more pronounced, and whether, in event that this should soon be seen likely to become a certainty, the market shall be affected favorably, will largely depend, of course, upon what may be the crop accounts hereafter, and whether we are to have in this country an cra of good times and general prosperity. With a decided resumption of commercial activity the cotton market might advance even with a promise of a record-breaking crop. uthern Exchange Cotton Letter.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, June 28.—(Special.)—Needed rans fell in Arkansas and the Memphis district on Sunday, improving crop prosects in these sections. Every one extens in these sections. Every one extens in these sections are supported to the sections of the section of the sections of the section of the which gradually brought about a small advance. The change in the crop was without effect owing to the better business outlook, and this, with our small supplies, makes the situation hazardous for the shorts should present prospects change. Our local stock declines at the rate of 10,000 bales daily, while the supply in this country and on the continent is less than for many years. With any change in the convictions of the trade as to future business, the reasons for caution on crop prospects, which are subject to change, are apparent. The market during the afternoon was dull and at 2:45 o'clock p. m. looked as if it was going to close easier, but in the last five minutes an order to buy 30,000 bales of August came to light, which had the effect of steadying prices.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, June 28.—(Special.)—The dullness in the cotton market continued-today. Liverpool was practically unchanged, but there was a notable absence of selling orders here, and our market opened 1 to 4 points higher. The trading was ferribly restricted and consisted chiefly of purchases of July and August against large sales of spots made here today. The big spot business and the absence of any pressure to sell were the only interesting features. August opened at 7.25, advanced to 7.28, declined to 7.28 and closed at 7.27 to 7.28 with the tone of the market steady. More rains were, reported today in sections where rain way said to be needed, and the crop seems to be doing excellently. The prevailing sentiment among local traders is still bullish. Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Grain Letter. Atlanta, June 28.-Notwithstanding the feeble response of Liverpoel to our advance the Chicago market opened higher and gained 16c over the final figures of last week. About the only reason that this could be attributed to was nervousness on the part of shorts over the outcome of July, and when the nearby future began to decline under professional sales September followed, and during the session sold off 13 per bushel. In addition to the disappointing cables, the Liverpool opening and closing was only 4d higher and there was considerable gossip afloat relative to free offerings of new wheat from the southwest, an abundant yield and early marketing. This naturally had a discouraging effect on holders and turned the sentiment of floor traders and scalpers to the short side, and the action of July, which moved up and down in rather an erratic manner, according to the character of orders, which had less influence after the first half hour, the trade apparently for-getting about light stocks and dealing solely on the possibility of a large increase by the time September 1st comes around. As has been the case for a number of weeks back. Monday's statistics were all bullish. While the world's shipments were not complete, those from Danubian not being received, those from other exporting countries were about 500,000 bushels less than week previous. The visible decreased 1,579,000 bushels and there was a decrease of 1,440,000 bushels on passage and 957,000 of 1,440,000 bushels on passage and $50,000 in the English visible, with a likelihood of a large decrease in the wid's available tomorrow. Clearances were may my derate at 21,000 with fifteen loads reported sold for export at New York. The close was rather heavy at the low point of the lay. Corn was strong early, and advanced &c, but closed with the gain on Saturday's final figures lost. The early strength was on buying by commission houses and local parties, but offering at the advance were large.

Provisions developed marked strength at the opening and immediately following pork advanced 324c per barrel and lard and ribs from 15 to 20 cents per 100 pounds over Saturday. There was a good general speculative demand, considerable of buying probably being for short interest. Prices later reacted some, but closed steady not far from the top for the day. The large domestic and for in cash demand continues. n the English visible, with a likelihood of

ACTIVE STOCKS NOT STRONG

They Were Subject To Heavy Realizing Yesterday.

HOLDINGS TRANSFERRED TO LAGGARDS

American Sugar Was the Sensation Advancing Sharply on Very Heavy Sales.

New York, June 28.—Today's market for securities was marked by the large volume of transactions and the great animation of the dealings as well as by the continued strong upward movement of prices. The marked exceptions to the greatest strength were the active stocks which have been recent leaders of the advance and in which there was heavy realizing today. This realizing was to a large extent by the professional element, and represented simply a transfer of holdings from stocks which have moved freely upward to others that have lagged in the advance, their calculations evidently being that the advance of the laggards is merely deferred. Such a transfer was made on a very large scale from Burlington to St. Paul. The latter stock has not moved as freely as the other Grangers, and Burlington's relative price has come up from below that of St. Paul to several points ahead of it. This has led professional traders to take their profits in Burlington and to transfer their holdings to St. Paul. The jump in the price of S Paul at the opening invited some sales of the stocks by the arbitrage brokers for London account which served as a partial restraint on its advance. Similar neuvers to this transfer were executed at other points in the list. Considering the proportions of this liquidation, the prices of the stocks affected were singularly firm and steady, and even strong in some cases. A reactionary tendency was induced at one time in the market generally, and the ever watchful bears again believed their opportunity had come and sold stocks, some prices receding below. Saturday's closing level. This was notably the case in Burlington and Northwestern. The to-tal sales of all stocks were nearly 345,000 shares, which has not been exceeded nor equaled since the three days following the election last fall. Besides the extraordinary volume of the transactions their wide di tribution was a noticeable feature. dealings were disseminated all through the inactive list and even the soft coal roads, whose values are at the lowest ebb as a group of any of the list, came in for a share of attention, Hocking Valley enjoying a rise from 21/2 to 3% per cent net. Gas was also very strong and advanced 2%. The only peculiarities of the market otherwise were the stocks whose prices declired. Net gains were the rule and extended to a point or over in Brooklyn Rap-ia Transit, 2½ in Lead, General Electric, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Long Island 4s. Denver and Rio Grande preferred, Illincis Central, Oregon Short Line, St. Paul and Rock Island, and Peoria and St. Louis preferred 2½; East River Gas. grade securities were characterized by material fluctuations, St. Paul gold 7s and Cincinnett, Cleveland and Indiana registering an extreme rise of 4 per cent each.
The gains elsewhere in the market were less noteworthy. Round amounts of the high priced liens were taken for investment and speculative account with considerable confidence with the foreign interest absorbing the international properties.

Considering the violence of the fluctuations the amount that changed hands was small. September was comparatively steady and closed at a %c decline. The Post's Financial Cable.

New York, June 28.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says: With the practical conclusion of the jubilee stock exchange business is increasing. The tendency at the moment is unmistakably toward speculation in American and Katfirs. Bulls on English rails are realizing and going to those markets. At the same time it must not be supposed that the English public is really dealing largely in either market. In the first place attention is still distracted by the jubilee, and in addition the people have been so bitten in both directions that their consequent shyness now is a serious point to be considered. First-class professionals, however, are buying Americans and Kaffirs. The close was nearly at the best. A feature was a sharp rise in Argentine provincial and other hitherto neglected bonds.

The Paris bourse was uncertain, but the close was better, although the market is disturbed by the approaching of the settlement. The Berlin market was firm after a period of dullness. Ordinarily such violent and rapid fluctua portion with the noise over it in the pit. holding to the belief, which was strengthened by the fact that little or no wheat was offered by those who were supposed to be interested in the deal, that it was nothing but a shaking off of the small fry. At any rate it had that effect. September which did not participate to any great extent in the opening weakness of July was wanted at the opening at 4c advance-66% to 66%c—a few lots selling at 66%c It declined to 65%@66%c, when July was giving indications of going all to pieces, and it recovered quickly to 66%c, when the fear was allayed for the moment. The crowd was made more susceptible to the panic which afterwards seized them by the news they were in possession of before the market opened. Liverpool opened at only ¼d advance. Tennessee and Oklahoma advices stated the crops in those sections were the finest ever seen, and California advices were almost equally favorable.

The weakness displayed by wheat later in the day caused more libera offerings of corn and the advance was ultimately lost. Local receipts amounted to 342 cars. The visible supply decreased 55 bushels. July opened a shade higher at 251/2@251/4c, advanced to 25% and declined to 25c, where it closed.

Oats were easier and ruled a shade lower on the good business transacted. Selling was free, the favorable weather being perhaps the most important feature. Local re ceipts were posted at 431 cars. The visible supply decreased 57,000 bushels. September opened unchanged at 18c, sold between 18 and 18%c and closed at 18c.

There was a big trade in provisions, with a good deal of important covering. Firm yard prices made shorts anxious to cover. They had great difficulty in doing so, and sharp advances were scored, but the packers were more disposed to sell. The feeling was steady to the close. September pork closed 25@27%c higher at $7.82%@7.85 September lard 20c higher, and September ribs about 121/2c higher.

Judge William T. Newman will appoint nine commissioners for the northern district of Georgia. He will in all probability make known his appointments today, and satisfy the anxious commissioners as to whether or not they will hold their places. He has given no intimation as to what he will do in the matter of making the appointments. It is not likely that he will pointments. It is not likely that he will make any changes.

The only appointment in which any great local interest is felt is that for the commissioner's place now held by Judge Nash R. Broyles. Judge Broyles has occupied the place for four years and his term of office will expire tomorrow. During the four years he has held the office he has given the public and the government the most satisfactory service, and there is a strong sentiment in favor of his re-appointment. He has shown splendid capabilities for his position and has filled the place ably and well.

most satisfactory service, and there is a strong sentiment in favor of his re-appointment. He has shown splendid capabilities for his position and has filled the place ably and well.

There is no likelihood that Judge Broyles will be removed. Judge Newman is said to be much pleased with the work done by the commissioner, and he will doubtless make no change. So far as is known, there is not even a candidate to succeed Judge Broyles. Four years ago, when he was elected, there were numerous applicants for the place, and he had quite a victory in getting the place. All of the lawyers who practice in the federal courts are anxious for Judge Newman to re-appoint Judge Broyles. The men in the district attorney's office are also in favor of his re-appointment because they say he is so well fitted for the place.

There may be one or two changes in commissioners in places outside of Atlanta, but it is not known where Judge Newman will use his ax.

The office of United States commissioner is the only one of any magnitude in the country that is safe from the republican office seeker. This office is filled by the United States Judges, and the appointments are made every four years. The only changes ever made are those made when the judges put in new men for friendship's sake or because of an unfitness on the part of the old officer.

SERIOUS SHOOTING AT PICNIC Logan Killed Cooper-Friends Took It Up and Twenty Were Hurt.

Logan and Cooper were deadly enemies, and when they met at the picnic Logan opened fire, killing Cooper at the first shot. He fired five other bullets into his prostrate foe's body and then the latter's friends took up the fight and the shooting became general.
An unknown man was killed and about twenty were wounded, some fatally, it is believed.

court.

The docket is full of cases which have been acscumulating during the regular recess of the court, and it will probably require several days before all the cases can be tried. All the cases tried yesterday were those in which dictroes were the defendants, and the charges were either larceny or assault and battery. The fines were all small on account of the character of the crimes of which the prisoners were convicted. Court will meet again this morning at 9 o'clock.

"IT TASTES GOOD, TOO.".

WANT TRAVELERS TO STOP OVER HERE

Will Take Up Question.

Be Allowed To Stop Over Here.

Chairman Culberson, of the Transportation Committee, Calls a Meeting To Take Up Suggestion.

The city government will endeavor to secure an important concession from the rallroads entering Atlanta by asking them to allow stop-over privileges to all persons traveling through this city.

The question will be taken up by the council and the prominent merchants and business men of the city, and the railroads will be urged to grant stop-over privileges to all their partrons, and if the cencession is secured it will result in great advant age to this city.

Under the present rules of the roads stop-over privileges are not allowed on first-class limited tickets and it is only now and then that special stop-over rights are granted to travelers. It is urged that hundreds of people pass through the city every week who would be glad to stop over in the city and make purchases of goods and othewise benefit the city.

This question will be taken up by the council committee on manufactures, sta tistics, freight rates and transportation a a meeting to be held in the city hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The committee has been called together by Mr. Hubert a meeting to be held in the city fail at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The committee has been called together by Mr. Hubert Culberson, councilman from the seventh ward, chairman of the committee. He has invited President T. B. Neal, of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, to attend the meeting and participate in starting the movement. Other prominent business and professional men will attend the meeting and the movement will be given an impetus of considerable strength.

The question was brought up by Captain E. S. Gay, the well-known insurance man. He made the suggestion that it would be well if the city could secure the stop-over privilege for travelers and his idea was sent in the form of a letter to Mayor Collier. Captain Gay sent the mayor a circular which is being sent out by Philadelphia rallroads have granted to all travelers the right to stop over in that city ten days, it only being necessary to give notice to conductors before reaching Philadelphia in order to secure the privilege.

This concession was secured from the railroads by the Philadelphia business men and the latter are now profiting by the advantage gained thereby. Hundreds of southern and western buyers, on their way to New York and other eastern markets, can now stop over in Philadelphia and the trade is increased in the latter city.

Captain Gay thinks Atlanta would gain much by securing the stop-over rights for travelers and in his latter to Mayor Collier he suggests that the question be taken up with the railroads with the view of ascertaining if the same rights cannot be allowed travelers passing through Atlanta as to those going through Philadelphia.

Mayor Collier thinks the idea a good one and he referred the letter of Captain Gay to Mr. Culberson, chairman of the manufactures and transportation committee. The members of the latter committee are. H. L. Culberson, chairman: Messrs. Thompson, Howard, Morris and Tolbert.

VETO BY MAYOR COLLIER.

HE TURNS THE PORTER'S ALLEY PAVING ORDINANCE DOWN.

Says the Property Owners Should Bear the Expense of Paving the Alley Rather Than the City.

Mayor Collier has vetoed the action of the council in adopting an ordinance to pave Porter's alley, the short alley running from Edgewood avenue to Auburn avenu in the rear of the Equitable building, In-man, Smith & Co., and the Young Men's Christian Association.

The veto message was sent to City Clerk

The veto message was sent to City Clerk Green yesterday. The mayor attached his reasons for vetoing the paper. He says the alley is not used sufficiently by the general public to justify the city in standing the expense of paving it.

The mayor takes the position that the property owners should bear the expense of paving the alley, if they want it paved, and he turns the ordinance down on the ground that it is not proper for the city to bear the entire burden, as provided for in the ordinance adopted by the council. He suggests that the property owners can get the alley paved by applying in the regular way, each owner agreeing to pay a share of the expense.

way, each owner agreeing to pay a share of the expense.

The ordinance passed the council and was concurred in by the aldermanic board, but in the latter body the ordinance struck a snag and came near meeting defeat. The board voted two for and two against the ordinance and the presiding officer cast the deciding vote in favor of the ordinance.

SWITCHMAN SUES FOR $10,000 Says He Was Permanently Injured

While at His Post of Duty. Charles R. Allen is suing the Western and Atlantic railroad and the Georgia, Carolina and Northern railroad for $10,000 damages. The suit was filed yesterday by Henderson Hallman and Goodwin & Westmoreland, who represent the plaintiff. Haclaims that he has been permanently injured, and that his capacity to earn a livelihood has been more than half decreased.

livelihood has been more than hair decreased.

Allen says that he was until recently employed as a switchman by the defendant companies. A few weeks ago he was sitting on the bumpler of a switch engine, with his feet on the running board. He says the engine was running rapidly, and he looked back for a moment to see if the brakes were off all the cars. He says this was necessary in order to answer the signal from the engine. As his head was turned from the direction in which the train was going, he came in violent contact with a blow post whichhad been placed dangerously near the track.

Violently Deny That They Have Any Motive Behind Examination.

TO VISIT COLLEGES IN THE SUMMER

Committee Will Not Wait Until the Fall Months Before They Take Up the State Institutions.

In a few days the Blalcck committee will leave the capitol, in which it has been delving for the past three weeks, and begin delving for the past three weeks, and begin exam ination on outside institutions.

The work of sifting the state departments is almost done. Yesterday the committee took up the supreme court, and examined the accounts of the collector. Mr. Swift, of Elbert, could not meet with the committee, but will be on hand today ready to put his analytical eye into the state treasury. As to the supreme court, the law provides that the amount of $4,000 law provides that the amount of $4,000 shall be saved out of funds collected for the salary of the collector and his deputies. The remaining amount is turned into the state treasury. The warrants of this department were examined and checked up yesterday.

state treasury. The warrants of this department were examined and checked up yesterday.

It was suggested that the members of the committee examine the supreme judges as to the amount of labor they put in each day for the state, and the nature of decisions rendered by them, but the committee deferred this part of the investigation, and took up only the accounts before them.

In the statehouse there yet remains the department of the committee will be hard at work for several days. Thus far only the contingent fund and the tax department has been examined. The committee has reserved the insurance department of the comptroller for the last.

In the examination of this department in the examination of the separation of the insurance department from the Blalock committee who favor the separation of the insurance department from the regular duties of the comptroller. Certain advocates of the bill to create an insurance commissioner are said to be behind the movement.

ance commissioner are said to be behind the movement.

The members of the committee violently resent any insinuation of this kind, and consider it a gross injustice to them that such should have been brought up.

"The committee has no purpose in view but to investigate fairly the different departments," said one of its members yesterday. "We have a duty to perform which we shall take up without prejudice or blas, and we shall go through with it according to the instructions of the house."

The committee has decided to make an examination of the state institutions during the summer months instead of waiting until the fall when the colleges will be in session.

"As soon as we first the desartments." session.

"As soon as we finish the departments here," said Chairman Blaicek yesterday, "we will begin upon the outside state institutions. We will not stop the examination until all departments and institutions of the state have been examined. I do not know how long this will take us, but what work we are doing is thorough.

COURT IS ASKED TO SEIZE ASSETS

Ormewood Park Company Defendant in a Sensational Bill.

HOT ROAST FOR ITS OFFICERS

Their Conduct Is Characterized as Fraudulent and Unauthorized.

A RULE NISI WAS GRANTED YESTERDAY

It Is Charged That the Assets Have Been Wasted and Grossly Mismanaged-Collusion Charged.

An application for receiver and injunction was filed yesterday against the Ormewood Park Company, and the bill, containing a number of spicy allegations, was presented Judge Lumpkin, who was asked to sign the order as prayed for.

The petition for receiver was denied, but the injunction and restraining order was granted and the case set for a hearing befranted and the case set for a hearing be-fore him in chambers on July 22d, at which time the defendants in the bill are required to show cause why the entire petition as filed should not be granted.

The bill recites that the company is a corporation regularly chartered under the laws of the state, and that it has been doing business in Atlanta state 1890. The alws of the state, and that it has been doing business in Atlanta since 1890. The petition is brought by Attorneys Jack Hastings and Attorneys Andrews and Davies, who represent Mr. John N. Malone and Mr. J. F. Meador. In addition to the Ormewood Park Company, Mr. J. R. Collins, Mr. A. L. Beck, Mr. G. H. Tanner and the Georgia Loan Savings and Banking Comp Georgia Loan, Savings and Banking Com-pany are made defendants in the case. It is alleged that the company was chartered in March, 1890, and that it was capitalized in the sum of $100,000.

The petitioners claim they bought their stock as fully paid up, paying for it full value. They say the corporation has been what is known in law as a close corporation. tion, and that Collins. Beck and Tanner held the majority of the stock. They say that from the very organization of the company Collins and Beck have had the exclusive control and management of the business with the exception of what assistance was rendered by Tanner, which was very little. It is charged that Judge Tanner was president of the company until September, 1895, when he resigned.

It is further charged that the records can be found which will show that the directors or officers of the company were elected according to law, and it is claimed that not one of the desired according to law. elected according to law, and it is claimed that not one of the elections which are alleged to have been held were legally carried out. After the resignation of Judge Tanner, it is stated that Mr. Collins became president, and has so continued in that position. The petitioners aver upon information and belief that no officers have ever been duly elected or qualified, and that their actions as such were illegal and vold.

Information at a Premium.

In paragraph 7 of the petition it is alleged that the petitioners have been kept in ig-norance of the affairs of the company, and that all efforts to secure an insight to the situation have been futile. They say they have been kept in utter darkness of the true situation, although repeated efforts to secure the facts have been made.

true situation, although repeated efforts to secure the facts have been made.

The petitioners deny they have ever had any notice of any meetings of the company, and that if any meetings were held, they did not participate in the meetings and knew nothing of what transpired at the meetings. They say that the corporation was not only a close one, but that it was a mysterious organization, whose affairs seemed to be secret to everybody except Collins and Beck and such others as they chose to take into their confidence in the management of the company's business.

It is charged that the assets of the company have been wrongfully dissipated and grossly mismanaged in various and sundry ways. They charge that while Judge Tanner was president of the company he entered into a deal with himself as a private individual, involving the assets of the company. They say that they do not charge that Judge Tanner participated in or was guilty of any moral wrong, but they claim that the deal was illegal, and ask that the court set aside the deed he is alleged to have made.

The deal referred to is said to have been an exchange or property which was paid for by Judge Tanner in stock of the com-

R. Collins and signed by the company.

It is charged that Collins and Beck have colluded and conspired together to get possession of the assets of the company which they have used for their own benefit.

fit.

The closing paragraphs of the petition are red hot in their allegations, and the petitioners claim they have received absolutely no benefit from the assets of the company, which they declare have been wrongfully wasted and misused by the defendants, Collins and Beck.

The case will be argued before Judge Lumpkin in chambers on July 22d, and some spicy developments are anticipated.

WANTS $15,000 FOR A FOOT.

John Walker Is Suing the Atlanta and West Point for Damages. John Walker, a former hostler of the Atlanta and West Point railroad, is suing the company for $15,000 damages, claiming that the amputation of his leg could have been avoided had the engineer been looking ahead and exercising due diligence. The suit is now pending in the first division of the city court before Judge Reid. The road is represented by Dorsey, Brewster & Howell, and the plaintiff by Glenn & Roun-

Howell, and the plaintift by Greini & Roun-tree.

It is claimed by Walker that his duties required him to get off the train and flag the engine across the city crossings. He said he was flagging the train across Mitchell street when he slipped and fell. He says he cried to the engineer to stop the train, which was barely moving, but that the engineer was not looking ahead as the law requires, and consequently did not see Walker's peril. The suit will be continued this morring and will consume the entire day.

CRAWFORD IS FREE; VERDICT NOT GUILTY

The Thornton Diamond Robbery Was Not Explained Yesterday.

STATE'S EVIDENCE WAS WEAK

Prisoner Did Not Even Introduce Testimony in His Behalf.

SIMPLY DECLARED HE WAS INNOCENT

After Brilliant Argument the Jury Re turned Its Verdict Late in the Afternoon Yesterday.

Will Crawford, the alleged diamond thief, accused of stealing the diamonds of Mrs. A. E. The ratio, was acquitted yesterday after noon in Judge Candler's court, after the jury had been out several hours.

He was placed on trial yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, but the case did not proceed until two hours later, as much time was consumed in the selection of a jury. The evidence, which was very brief, was introduced by the state before noon, when the case closed and argument was begun. The defense introduced no testimony and the statement of the prisoner was simply a denial of the crime.

After brilliant addresses by the counsel, the jury was charged by Judge Candler, but a verdict did not come until late in the out a verdict did not come until late in the afternoon, just before the court adjourned for the day. While the jury was out Crawford's mother and sisters awaited the result of the investigation, requestly asking if the verdict had been reached. As soon as the verdict was read the prisoner was embraced by his sisters, and his mother affectionately kissed him a number of times.

soon as the verdict was read the prisoner was embraced by his sisters, and his mother affectionately kissed nim a number of times.

"I want a square deal this time," said Crawford to a newspaper man. I am not near as guilty as some people think and I want everyoody to know that I have been acquitted in this case. I just want the square thing, that's all."

Crawford was carried back to jall yesterday afternoon and he will remain in his cell until the dicher indictments now pending against him are disposed of. There are a number of indictments against his brother, Ed Crawford, and the latter may be placed on trial this morning. It is quite probable, however, that all the cases against the brothers cannot be tried at this session of court, as Wednesday is the last day of the term and Judge Candler's court will do no more business for the term after tomorrow afternoon.

The testimony of the state yesterday introduced in the trial was very brief, indeed. Mr. Thornton testified that the diamonds were stolen from the pillow in which they had been placed. The theft occurred December 1, 1895.

O. H. Pharr, of the Beck-Gregg Hardware Company, testified that he purchased the ring from Will Crawford. A witness was next introduced who substantiated this statement, swearing that he was present when the trade between Crawford and Pharr was made. The ring was then pawned to Henry Schaul, the pawnbroker, who advanced the sum of $50 to Pharr. The ring then began to travel rapidly. Mr. Burnett, the wirewreker in the Kimball house, bought the ring from Schaul and sold it to N. Kaiser. It was while the ring was in the possession of Pawnbroker Kaiser that it was identified and returned by the delective department to Mrs. Thornton.

Burnett is now suing Pawnbroker Kaiser for damages, claimfor that his arrest and prosecution by the latter was malicious and without reasonable cause. But after considering the testimony, the jury decided to believe the statement of Crawford and the verdict was rendered accordingly. Crawford claims that h persecuted on account of his lather's pon-ties.

The argument in the case yesterday was exceedingly brilliant, as all of the attor-neys in the case were upon their mettle. The first speech was delivered by Mr. T. R. R. Cobb, who was followed by Solicitor Hill. for the state. Colonel James W. Austin concluded the argument, represent-ing the defendant. As the prisoner intro-duced no testimony, his counsel had the benefit of the opening and close in the case.
